

Nations of Mankind

“Mankind, also called Men and sometimes Humans, are a race of intelligent, mammalian humanoids dominant in the Old World. The race of Men were one of the last intelligent peoples of the Warhammer World to become civilized. However, they are now one of the most powerful and populous species spread across the globe and might be considered the dominant intelligent race of the Warhammer World since the civilizations of the High Elves and the Dwarfs entered their mutual states of decline. Men are the chief devotees of the Imperial god Sigmar, as well as the primary opponent of Chaos' continued incursions into the Old World. In a severe grip of irony however, Mankind is also amongst the Dark Gods' greatest and most numerous servants.

It is a very common knowledge that the race of Men is known to be highly susceptible to the influences of Chaos. Unlike the High Elves, Mankind has only just begun the transition into a race that can fully utilize the Winds of Magic. As yet, very few humans are able to cast spells, though this number is slowly increasing as the centuries pass. However, most human wizards lack the mental discipline or inner strength to prevent themselves from causing arcane mishaps or the capability to access all the Winds of Magic simultaneously, like the greatest of the Elven Archmagi.

Humans have a highly developed brain, which is capable of abstract reasoning, language, introspection, and problem-solving. This mental capability, combined with an erect body carriage that frees the hands for manipulating objects, allowed humans to make greater use of tools, much like the other humanoid intelligent races of the Warhammer World. Other higher-level thought processes of humans, such as self-awareness, rationality, and sapience, are considered to be defining features of what constitutes a "person", though such features are shared with the other major intelligent species Men share the Warhammer World with, such as the Elves, the Dwarfs, and the Greenskins (though some might question this last one).

Like most higher primates, humans are social animals. However, humans are uniquely adept at utilizing systems of communication for self-expression, the exchange of ideas, and organization. Humans create complex social structures composed of many cooperating and competing groups, from families to nations. Social interactions between humans have established an extremely wide variety of values, social norms, and rituals, which together form the basis of human society. With humans present across the world and having adapted to every possible environment, they are currently the Warhammer World's dominant intelligent race. The current population of Men on the Warhammer World numbers in the hundreds of millions.

Humans are noted for their desire to understand and influence their environment, seeking to explain and manipulate phenomena through science, philosophy, mythology, and religion. This natural curiosity has led to the development of advanced tools and skills, which are passed down culturally, though cultural stagnation or even retrogression is possible, as the grim history of the Elder Races of the Warhammer World so readily demonstrates.”—Warhammer Wiki

Mankind is home to cultures of various nationalities across the world. While the Empire is the dominant human civilization, there are non-the-less civilizations from other realms who rise into history, with warriors of such renown their enemies fear to even whisper their names.

This fan supplement provides unique warrior careers with their own special starting Talents/Traits based on the unique lands they hail from, along with special Trappings and Talents for their nation exclusive Careers that make them distinct from those in the Core Book and the Empire in general. Liberties are made regarding lore for some factions lacking details and are added to provide unique mechanics based on real history and mythology. All Nation Mechanics (Racials) are intended for use for all careers, not just the homebrew careers. Reikspiel is presumed to be known to all characters, and all races are expected to know one or more of their native languages, too.

- Warhammer Nations (pg. 2-3)
- Provinces of the Empire (pg. 4)
- Bretonnian Knight (pg. 5-8)
- Kislev Kossar, Winged Lancer and Divine Lore (pg. 9-13)
- Norscan Mercenary and Marks of the Gods (pg. 14-16)
- Arabyan Janissary (pg. 17)
- Ind Ahadi (pg. 18)
- Cathayan Dragon Monk and Paths (pg. 19-20)
- Nippon Samurai, Vimto Monks and Kenjutsu (pg. 21-24)
- Ninja (pg. 25)
- Estalian Almogavar and Inquisitor (pg. 26-28)
- Tilean Condottieri (pg. 29)
- Albionese Highlander (Pg. 30)
- Empire Knightly Orders (pg. 31-32)

This file is for non-commercial use as a fan supplement to Warhammer Fantasy Roleplay 4th Edition. All art used belong to their respective artists/creators. This work does not claim ownership of any art used. ***

Warhammer Nations

Albion

Skills: Athletics, Climb, Cool, Endurance, Intimidate, Language (Albionese), Lore (Albion), Melee (Basic), Melee (Polearm), Outdoor Survival, Perception, Ranged (Bow), Ranged (Thrown), Stealth (Rural)

Talents: Resistance (Mutation), Stone Soup, Strider (Marshes), Warrior Born, Very Strong or Very Resilient

Araby

Skills: Charm, Cool, Evaluate, Gossip, Haggle, Language (Araby), Language (Any), Language (Bretonnian), Leadership, Lore (Araby), Melee (Basic), Pray, Ranged (Blackpowder), Ride (Horse)

Talents: Resistance (Heat), Savvy or Suave, Read/Write or Deal Maker, Two Random Rolls

Bretonnia

Skills: Animal Care, Animal Charm, Charm, Cool, Gossip, Haggle, Language (Bretonnian), Lore (Bretonnia), Lore (Weather), Melee (Basic), Ranged (Bow), Ride (Horse), Trade (Farming)

Talents: Nimble Fingers or Very Resilient, Stone Soup, Strong Back, Dukedom Trait (Any)

Bretonnian Noble

Skills: Charm Animal, Charm, Cool, Gossip, Haggle, Language (Bretonnian), Language (Any), Leadership, Lore (Bretonnia), Lore (Politics), Melee (Basic or Two-handed), Pray, Ride (Horse)

Talents: Noble Blood, Read/Write, Suave or Warrior Born, Dukedom Trait (Any)

Dukedom Traits: You are automatically granted a +10 bonus to all Lore (Bretonnia) Tests involving your native Dukedom.

L'Anguillian: Two Random Talents

Aquitaine: Coolheaded, One Random Talent

Artois: Two Random Talents

Bastonne: Stout-Hearted, One Random Talent

Bordeaux: Two Random Talents

Brionne: Two Random Talents

Carcassonne: Lightning Reflexes, One Random Talent

Couronne: Trick Riding, One Random Talent

Gisoreux: Two Random Talents

Lyonnesse: Schemer, One Random Talent

Montfort: Hardy, One Random Talent

Mousillon: Strong-Minded, One Random Talent

Parravon: Seasoned Traveler or Sixth Sense, One Random Talent

Quenelles: Hatred (Greenskins), One Random Talent

Cathay

Skills: Animal Care, Charm Animal, Charm, Climb, Cool, Evaluate, Gossip, Haggle, Language (Any), Language (Cathayan), Leadership, Lore (Cathay), Melee (Basic), Ranged (Bow), Ride (Horse)

Talents: Coolheaded or Savvy, Read/Write or Linguistics, Strider (Mountains), Two Random Rolls

Estalia

Skills: Animal Charm, Athletics, Bribery, Charm, Cool, Consume Alcohol, Entertain (Storytelling), Gossip, Language (Estalian), Language (Tilean), Language (Araby), Lore (Estalia), Sleight of Hand

Talents: Nose for Trouble, Savvy or Suave, Region Trait (Any)

Region Traits: You are automatically granted a +10 bonus to all Lore (Estalia) Tests involving your native Region.

Aradón: Coolheaded, Two Random Talents

Catlinia: Cat-Tongued, Two Random Talent

Vanlen: Gregarious, Two Random Talent

Navarr: Mimic, Two Random Talents

Castill: Stout-Hearted, Two Random Talents

Laon: Hardy, Two Random Talents

Gaellica: Field-Dressing, Two Random Talent

Vasconia: Lightning Reflexes, Menacing, One Random Talent

Andal: Craftsman (Trade), Read/Write, One Random Talent

Murc: Beneath Notice, Two Random Talents

Portul: Sharp, Read/Write, One Random Talents

Ind

Skills: Charm, Climb, Cool, Evaluate, Gossip, Haggle, Language (Araby), Language (Cathayan), Language (Indish), Leadership, Lore (Ind), Melee (Basic), Ranged (Blackpowder), Ranged (Bow), Ride (Horse)

Talents: Lightning Reflexes or Warrior Born, Pure Soul, Resistance (Heat), Two Random Rolls

Kislev (Gospodar)

Skills: Animal Charm, Charm, Cool, Evaluate, Gossip, Haggle, Language (Gospodar), Language (Ungol), Leadership, Lore (Kislev), Melee (Basic), Ride (Horse)

Talents: Resistance (Cold), Suave or Savvy, Very Resilient, Provincial Bonus (Any)

Kislev (Ungol)

Skills: Animal Charm, Cool, Gossip, Intimidate, Language (Gospodar), Language (Norse), Language (Ungol), Lore (Kislev), Melee (Basic), Outdoor Survival, Ranged (Bow), Ride (Horse)

Talents: Hardy, Resistance (Cold), Warrior Born or Very Strong, Provincial Bonus

The North of Kislev: Menacing, One Random Talent

The East of Kislev: Animal Affinity, One Random Talent

The West of Kislev: Night Vision, One Random Talent

The South of Kislev: Two Random Talents

Nippon

Skills: Charm, Climb, Cool, Evaluate, Gossip, Haggle, Language (Any), Language (Wastelander), Language (Nipponese), Leadership, Lore (Nippon), Lore (Politics), Melee (Basic), Ranged (Bow), Sail

Talents: Sea Legs, Sixth Sense, Warrior Born or Sharp, Two Random Rolls

Norsca

Skills: Athletics, Climb, Consume Alcohol, Cool, Endurance, Intimidate, Language (Norse), Language (Gospodar), Language (Ungol), Lore (Norsca), Melee (Basic), Outdoor Survival, Perception, Ranged (Thrown), Sail, Swim

Talents: Big (pg. 338), Hardy, Night Vision, Resistance (Cold), Very Resilient or Very Strong

Tilea

Skills: Art (Any), Bribery, Charm, Cool, Consume Alcohol, Entertain (Storytelling), Gossip, Language (Estalian), Language (Tilean), Language (Bretonnian), Lore (Politics), Lore (Tilea), Sail, Sleight of Hand

Talents: Gregarious, Read/Write, Sharp or Suave, City State Trait (Any)

City State Traits: You gain a +10 to Lore (Tilea) Tests related to your starting city state.

Remas: Etiquette (Cultists), One Random Roll

Luccini: Etiquette (Elves), One Random Roll

Trantio: Etiquette (Dwarfs), One Random Roll

Pavona: Etiquette (Merchants), Random Rolls

Verezzo: Etiquette (Politicians), One Random Roll

Sartosa: Etiquette (Pirates), One Random Roll

Miragliano: Etiquette (Rat Catchers), One Random Roll

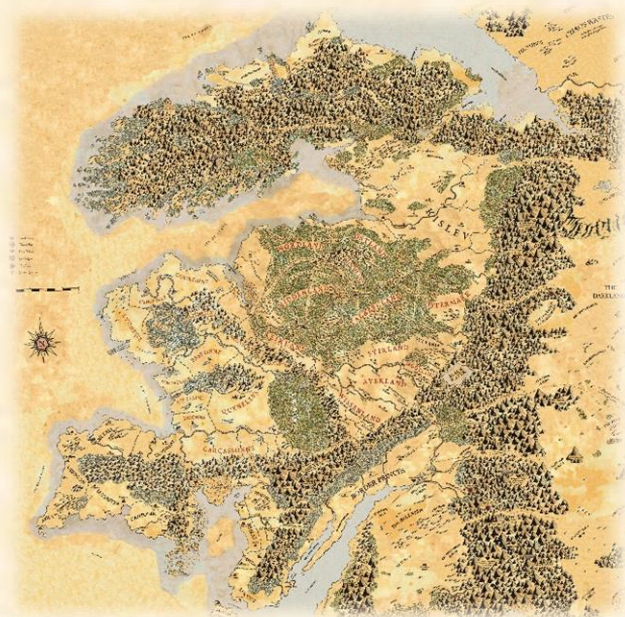

Tobaro: Etiquette (Miners), One Random Roll

New World Colonies: Etiquette (Adventurers), One Random Roll

Westerland (Marienburg)

Skills: Bribery, Charm, Cool, Gossip, Haggle, Language (Arabyc or Bretonnian), Language (Cathayan or Nipponese), Language (Estalian or Tilean), Language (Wastelander), Lore (Westerland), Row, Sail, Sleight of Hand, Trade (Any)

Talents: Deal Maker, Read/Write or Sixth Sense, Savvy or Suave, Two Random Rolls

Provinces of the Empire

Averland

Skills: Animal Care, Charm, Cool, Evaluate, Gossip, Haggle, Language (Bretonnian), Language (Mootish), Leadership, Lore (Averland), Melee (Basic), Ride (Horse), Trade (Miner)

Talents: Hatred (Greenskins), Suave, 3 Random Talents

Hochland

Skills: Animal Care, Charm, Cool, Evaluate, Gossip, Haggle, Leadership, Lore (Hochland), Melee (Basic), Perception, Ranged (Blackpowder), Track

Talents: Marksman or Sharp, Rover, 3 Random Talents

Middenland

Skills: Animal Care, Charm, Cool, Evaluate, Gossip, Haggle, Intimidate, Language (Bretonnian), Language (Wastelander), Leadership, Lore (Middenland), Melee (Basic), Melee (Two-handed)

Talents: Menacing, Warrior Born or Coolheaded, 3 Random Talents

Nordland

Skills: Animal Care, Cool, Evaluate, Gossip, Haggle, Language (Norse), Language (Wastelander), Leadership, Lore (Nordland), Melee (Basic), Ranged (Bow), Row, Sail

Talents: Hardy, Stout-hearted, Very Resilient or Very Strong, 2 Random Talents

Ostermark

Skills: Animal Care, Charm, Cool, Evaluate, Gossip, Haggle, Language (Gospodar), Language (Norse), Language (Ungol), Leadership, Lore (Ostermark), Lore (Undead), Melee (Basic), Ranged (Bow)

Talents: Hatred (Undead), Marksman or Coolheaded, 3 Random Talents

Ostland

Skills: Charm, Cool, Evaluate, Gossip, Haggle, Language (Gospodar), Language (Ungol), Leadership, Lore (Ostland), Melee (Basic), Outdoor Survival, Ranged (Bow)

Talents: Cool Headed or Very Resilient, 4 Random Talents

Reikland

Skills: Animal Care, Charm, Cool, Evaluate, Gossip, Haggle, Language (Bretonnian), Language (Wastelander), Leadership, Lore (Reikland), Melee (Basic), Ranged (Bow)

Talents: Doomed, Savvy or Suave, 3 Random Talents

Stirland

Skills: Animal Care, Cool, Evaluate, Gossip, Haggle, Intimidate, Language (Mootish), Leadership, Lore (Stirland), Melee (Basic), Ranged (Bow), Sleight of Hand, Stealth (Urban)

Talents: Hatred (Undead), Savvy or Suave, 3 Random Talents

Talabecland

Skills: Animal Care, Charm, Cool, Gossip, Haggle, Lore (Talabecland), Melee (Basic), Outdoor Survival, Ranged (Bow), Ride (Horse), Stealth (Rural), Track

Talents: Accurate Shot, Marksman, 3 Random Talents

Wissenland

Skills: Animal Care, Charm, Cool, Evaluate, Gossip, Haggle, Language (Bretonnian), Language (Tilean), Leadership, Lore (Wissenland), Melee (Basic), Ranged (Blackpowder), Research, Trade (Farmer or Miner)

Talents: Coolheaded, Iron Will, 3 Random Talents

Bretonnian Knight

This Career requires you to be a Bretonnian Noble to be eligible.

Knights of the Empire start their careers following after some other knight, acting as nothing more than a servant. What else would you expect from a nation who has forgotten the true meaning of chivalry, the true meaning of honor, and the true meaning of courage? In Bretonnia, knights start off riding their own trail, as they set off on their errantry tour. Bretonnian knights learn from the best school there is: genuine experience. At the start of their tour, they don't have any genuine experience, but most make up the deficit with their enthusiasm. Knights Errant are expected to travel widely, often alone, seeking out perilous situations in which to prove their worth. As a result, they can be found anywhere in the Old World, sometimes to the regret of the natives.

Knights of the Realm are the backbone of the Bretonnian army and the most common members of its ruling elite. They have distinguished themselves in errantry and received a fief or a position in some other noble's household. They are expected to honor and defend their lord, as well as the Realm.

Questing Knights seek the Grail. Following in the footsteps of Louis the Rash, they cross Bretonnia and the rest of the world, seeking the blessing of the Lady of the Lake. Those knights who have succeeded in their quest have met the Lady in a variety of places, so the quest is not a search for a place. Rather, it is an effort to prove oneself worthy of the Grail. Thus, Questing Knights strive to show themselves to be paragons of knighthood, seeking out dangerous situations in which to uphold the honor of Bretonnia and the Lady of the Lake. Questing Knights renounce the use of the lance because it is the weapon of loyal service, and a Questing Knight stands apart from the feudal hierarchy until his quest is complete.

Grail Knights are the flower of Bretonnian chivalry, the ideal to which all other knights aspire, at least in theory. The King of Bretonnia is always a Grail Knight, as are a number of the Dukes. There are also, however, many Grail Knights of lesser rank, including the hermit knights who spend their lives tending Grail Chapels. Those who have drunk from the Grail are transformed. Their dedication to the ideals of chivalry becomes absolute, and most shine with a Fay light. This light fades over a few days after the knight drinks from the grail, but it may brighten once more when he is fighting particularly bravely for the Lady of the Lake. It is not possible to enter this career unless the Lady of the Lake has appeared to you and offered you a sip from the Grail. The Lady only appears to true sons of Bretonnia whom she judges to be worthy, so foreigners, women, and peasants cannot enter this career.

Bretonnian Knight Advance Scheme

Starting Characteristics: Weapon Skill, Strength, Agility and Intelligence

Career Rank 2 Characteristic: Willpower

Career Rank 3 Characteristic: Fellowship

Career Rank 4 Characteristic: Toughness

WS	BS	S	T	I	Ag	Dex	Int	WP	Fel
✠		✠	☀		✠		✠	✠	☠

Knight Errant—Silver 5 (Warrior)

Skills: Athletics, Animal Care, Lore (Heraldry), Lore (The Lady), Melee (Basic), Melee (Cavalry), Pray, Ride (Horse)

Talents: Etiquette (Nobles or Cultists), Roughrider, Sturdy, Virtue of Knighthood

Trappings: Destrier with Saddle and Tack, Full Mail Armor with Plated Arms, Legs and Helm, Hand Weapon, Shield, Tabard Depicting Dukedom

Knight of the Realm—Gold 1

Skills: Cool, Dodge, Endurance, Intimidate, Language (Battle), Melee (Two-handed)

Talents: Bless (The Lady), Fearless (Everything), Shieldsman, Strike Mighty Blow

Trappings: Horse Barding, Land in Bretonnia (Several Acres), Servants

Questing Knight—Gold 4 (Gains Virtue of the Quest)

Skills: Charm, Consume Alcohol, Heal, Leadership

Talents: Combat Master, Seasoned Traveler, Stout-hearted, Unshakeable

Trappings: Quality Melee Weapon (Any)

Grail Knight—Gold 7 (Removes Virtue of the Quest)

Skills: Lore (Warfare), Ride (Hippogryph or Pegasus)

Talents: Grail Virtue, Inspiring, Iron Will, Strike to Injure

Trappings: Blessed by the Lady (Permanent +5 Advances to Strength, Toughness and Willpower), Immunity (Corruption, Disease, Fatigue, Poison), Regenerate Trait

Blessings of the Lady:

Battle	Courage	Fortune	Might	Protection	Righteousness
--------	---------	---------	-------	------------	---------------

Knightly Virtue

Max: 4

You may select one virtue for 100 XP with an additional cost of 100 XP per additional Virtue. This virtue cannot be retracted or upgraded, and you may purchase one additional virtue per career Advancement. Once you select a Virtue you are beholden to the Bretonnian Code of Chivalry and must abide by its Seven Commandments and Rules of Honor, or suffer Sin Points:

Seven Commandments

- To serve the Lady of the Lake.
- To defend the domains entrusted to them.
- To protect the weak and fight for the right.
- Always to fight the enemies of virtue and order.
- Never to give up the fight until the foe be defeated.
- Never to break faith with a friend or ally.
- Always to display honor and courtesy.

Rules of Honor

- A knight may only fight hand-to-hand, with sword or lance; they may not use a missile weapon.
- A knight shall always accept a challenge towards personal combat.
- A knight shall not draw sword against their fellow Bretonnian knights, except in trial by combat or within a tournament.
- A knight shall not allow themselves to be captured alive.
- A knight shall not flee from the enemy, nor retreat without proper tactical cause.

Virtue of Audacity - If an opponent's Strength Bonus is higher than yours, use its value in place of your own for the purpose of dealing Damage. If your Strength is higher, ignore 1 TB from your enemy per two additional SB you have over theirs.

Virtue of Confidence - Whilst engaged in combat, you may take a Full Action to issue a Challenge to a single opponent. Most targets of the Challenge are not obligated to accept the Challenge (though many do); Knights with any Virtue Talent must accept. For the duration of the challenge, you gain a +1 bonus on damage rolls in melee combat. Whilst engaged in a Challenge, you may not Challenge a new opponent in that combat until the first is defeated or has fled the battle. You must direct all attacks towards the challenged opponent until either you or they are defeated.

Virtue of Discipline - It is no easier to attack you when you are outnumbered. With this Talent, you negate any bonuses to your opponents' Weapon Skill that are gained as a result of superior numbers. This virtue does not negate any other circumstantial bonuses. If you have Combat Master in conjunction with this virtue, you instead gain a +1 SL when defending against multiple enemies per Talent Purchase in Combat Master.

Virtue of Duty - You may pledge loyalty to up to three other characters. When you fight alongside those characters, they each gain a +5 bonus to their Weapon Skill characteristics. If any of them are not present in a battle, you take a -10 penalty to your Weapon Skill characteristic. This effect does not stack with other Virtue of Duty's.

Virtue of Empathy - You gain +20 to all Fellowship Tests when dealing with peasants and people of lower Social Status. Other knights do not think less of you for talking with your social inferiors. (They may think less of you for choosing this path in the first place, however.)

Virtue of Heroism - You excel at hand-to-hand combat and your hits can prove deadly. Whenever you roll +6 SL on a successful WS Test, you may choose to forgo the additional damage or defense to automatically inflict a Critical Hit instead. When using the Virtue of Heroism in conjunction with an Impact or Damaging Weapon, the Impact or Damaging Quality does not apply.

Virtue of the Ideal - You gain a +1 bonus to your Attack Damage when outnumbered in melee combat. You gain an additional +1 damage per 2 enemies attacking you at once.

Virtue of the Impetuous Knight - Charge Attack has double its normal Movement distance for you. In addition to the normal +1 Advantage, you also gain a +1 bonus on the Damage of your attack. All normal conditions on a Charge Attack apply.

Virtue of the Joust - You gain +20 WS when using a Lance.

Virtue of Knightly Temper - If you successfully wound an opponent at the end of a Charge Attack, you may immediately make another free attack against the same opponent. This attack costs no actions but is otherwise the same as a Standard Attack. You are not required to make this attack (for example, if the opponent is already dead).

Virtue of Noble Disdain - You gain a +20 bonus to your Weapon Skill when fighting characters who have used a missile weapon against you or your allies. You take a permanent -10 penalty to your Ballistic Skill characteristic due to your loathing for such cowardly means.

Virtue of the Penitent - You may not use magic items or ride steeds other than a horse. Any weapon you wield counts as magical, and the Critical Value of any Critical Hit roll made against you is reduced by -10. A Critical Hit with a value of 0 has no effect.

Virtue of Purity - You may invoke the Gifts of the Lady quickly. You may roll a Pray Test as a free action every round during combat. Automatically gain one Blessing of the Lady for yourself or an ally at the beginning of combat.

Virtue of Stoicism - You may re-roll any failed Fear or Terror Test, or any failed Test to resist Intimidation. If the re-roll succeeds, ignore the first failure.

Virtue of the Quest - This Talent has several effects, but they only apply whilst the character is in the career of the Questing Knight. If they complete the career and moves on or abandons it to take up a different basic career, the effects of the Talent lapse. If the character completes the career and becomes a Grail Knight, the Talent is lost altogether. If they simply abandoned the career, they retain the Talent, and if the knight re-enters the Questing Knight career its effects apply once more.

Description: You take a -50 penalty to your Weapon Skill characteristic if you have a lance. Questing Knights renounce the use of that weapon, and those with the Virtue of the Quest find it hard to break that pledge. You receive visions that direct your quest. These visions lead you to the places where you should be, which normally means that they lead you into danger. At any time, you may call upon your strength of purpose to give you succor. As an Action, you may spend a Fortune Point to heal 1d10+WPB of your own Wounds.

The Grail Quest: The Questing Knight's quest should be a defining feature of the how character plays each session, both mechanically and during roleplaying. It must provide a sufficient challenge in order for the knight to logically complete the Questing Knight career and to enter the Grail Knight career, and the adventures included should have more significance than the defeat of isolated bands of Greenskins. Once character has reached the point of advancement from Questing Knight to Grail Knight, they should be put under one last significant task by The Lady, usually consisting of 3-5 sessions of story content leading to their final encounter with The Green Knight.

Significance

There are many different types of significance which suit different styles of play. In one example, the Questing Knight could unearth and defeats a significant threat to the land of Bretonnia.

For example: This might be a secretive underground Chaos or Necromancy cult hiding in a major city or large town, an Orc warlord ravaging the local populace and possibly the beginning of an Orc WAAAGH!!!, or even a Bestigor gathering a war herd or Norscan raiding party unleashing carnage in the name of their dark gods.

In another way, the events of the quest could force the Questing Knight to face their weaknesses or past mistakes. Thus, a knight who failed to defend a village against an Orc attack might find themselves placed to defend a different village from a horde of Beastmen. On the other hand, a knight with a tendency to lose their temper might find themselves forced to calmly negotiate peace between two nobles who hate each other and have nothing but contempt for the Questing Knight themselves.

Whilst other player characters may be involved, they are essentially following the knight around on their quest. If the Questing Knight is uncovering a major threat to the land, this is not much of a problem: it's the sort of thing adventurers do anyway. If they're facing their own flaws, the other characters may feel a bit left out. The best thing to do here is talk to the players and see what they would be happiest doing.

The Green Knight

The final part of the quest, the confrontation with the Green Knight, is for the Questing Knight alone. The combat with the Green Knight could be a purely symbolic gesture if the Questing Knight has saved Bretonnia from a major threat, or it could be a test of whether or not the knight has the skill to back up their acts of chivalry. At this point it is up to the GM how to proceed. The Green Knight is one of, if not the most skilled duelist in Warhammer Fantasy, besting innumerable foes and being virtually immortal; however, his stats don't need to reflect this fact. The Green Knight is a test, just like any of the tests sent by The Lady to her loyal knights during the rest of their Quest. It is recommended, if you stat the Green Knight, that he acts as a counter to the knight PC, with his Characteristics, Trappings and Talents being nearly identical. Once the duel is finished (preferably in victory) the final step with the Grail Quest is all that remains.

The Lady of the Lake

Play the meeting with the Lady as a dramatic event. Lights shine from lake you meet her by, the Lady, dazzlingly beautiful, walks across water as smooth as mirrored glass, and as the character drinks from the Grail they see the whole world in its proper order. The Questing Knight hears stories of the encounters between the greatest of heroes, including the Grail Companions, and the Green Knight and the Lady. Their encounters then includes elements from the stories made from the experiences of the Questing Knight and the party they accompany, making it clear that they are just as much a part of the same tradition since Bretonnia's unification. After this ceremony is concluded, the PC may select a Grail Virtue, assuming they have purchased at least one Knightly Virtue.

Grail Virtue

Max: 1

You may select one Grail Virtue after advancing to Grail Knight. This virtue cannot be retracted or upgraded and requires you've acquired the Knightly Virtue of the same name: You cannot acquire the Grail Virtue of Audacity for instance without first acquiring the Knightly Virtue of Audacity.

Grail Virtue of Audacity - Whenever you are engaged in melee with one or more opponents, you increase your Toughness Bonus Characteristic by +4. The bonus applies to successful melee attacks made by opponents engaged with you and lasts an amount of hits equal to your Toughness Bonus. After the bonus is expended, you cannot use the Grail Virtue of Audacity for the duration of the encounter.

Grail Virtue of Confidence - Whilst you are involved in a Challenge, all other opponents must succeed a Very Hard (-30) Weapon Skill Tests to hit you. Also, you gain a +2 to your Toughness Bonus during the duel, are Immune to Psychology and you cannot lose Advantage if hit during the duel by enemies that are not the challenger.

Grail Virtue of Discipline - When outnumbered in melee, the knight gains the same bonus to hit as their enemies would. This bonus applies even if they have the Combat Master Talent, which would deny their enemies the outnumbering bonus.

Grail Virtue of Duty - If you fight with those to whom you are pledged, they gain +1 bonus to their Melee Attack and +10 bonus to their Strength characteristics during the Battle. If any of those to whom you are pledged are absent, you take a -10 penalty to your Strength and Toughness characteristics. This effect does not stack from multiple Grail Virtue of Duty's.

Grail Virtue of Empathy - When you attempt to recruit Bretonnian peasants as Men-At-Arms, you make an Average (+20) Fellowship Test first. If you succeed, the peasants do not need to check and will join you in numbers equal to your Fellowship Bonus + SL. If you fail, the peasants must make their own Willpower tests as normal. If you're still successful, they still join you in number equal to your Fellowship Bonus. The Peasants may be given trappings of +1 to Armor, a Hand Weapon and Buckler, a Polearm or a Bow.

Peasants

M	WS	BS	S	T	I	Ag	Dex	Int	WP	Fel	W
4	35	40	40	45	30	40	40	30	35	30	15

Grail Virtue of Heroism - If you inflict damage on an opponent, you do an additional number of Wounds equal to the opponent's Armor Points on that location. In addition, if you deal any damage to non-metal armor, armor has no effect in damage reduction for the opponent.

Grail Virtue of the Ideal - You gain a permanent +10 Weapon Skill and +10 Strength characteristics (these count as Talent Advances); moreover, you may choose 3 Bretonnian Noble Racial Skills to give a free +5 Advances to.

Grail Virtue of the Impetuous Knight - On a successful Melee Attack, you may now Deathblow (Core Book, pg. 160) any adjacent enemies and continue to Deathblow on additional successful hits an amount of times equal to your WS Bonus. All other rules on Deathblow still apply.

Grail Virtue of the Joust - In your hands, all lances count as magic weapons and deal +2 additional damage while mounted and Charging. They also lose the Improvised Weapon effect if used on a round you haven't Charged, while mounted. If you wield a lance that is already magical, its damage is increased by +1.

Grail Virtue of Knightly Temper - When you make a successful Charge Attack (on foot or mounted), you may now make a Free Action Attack against any enemy, not just the one you hit; moreover, if the initial enemy charged survives one or both attacks, you may make additional Main and Free action attacks each turn against it until it is dead. You may only do this an amount of times equal to your WS Bonus per Encounter.

Grail Virtue of Noble Disdain - Double the Critical Value of any Critical Hit you score against an opponent who has used missile weapons against you or your allies. Example: rolling 25 becomes 50 on the Critical Hit table. If the amount exceeds 100, you instantly inflict the 100 injury.

Grail Virtue of the Penitent - All Critical Wound effects have their conditions reduced by -1. Example: gaining 2 Bleeding and 1 Blinded from Struck Forehead for instance now only grants 1 Bleeding. You may also reverse the dice of a Critical Hit made against you. Thus, if your opponent, with a Critical Hit, rolls an 85, you may swap the dice to give 58 which is less serious. This effect does not stack with the -10 to a Critical Hit roll result provided by Virtue of Penitent and must be decided between the two. You must choose to forfeit your -10 for this effect before the GM announces the roll value. If the roll value flipped is higher than the original roll (say the roll was a 58 and flipped it's an 85), you simply take the Critical Hit from the original roll value.

Grail Virtue of Purity - You gain the +1 Lucky Talent and during combat you may spend 1 Fortune point to gain all Blessings (The Lady) for yourself for 3 Rounds.

Grail Virtue of Stoicism - You are immune to Fear and Terror and cannot be Intimidated. If purchased, Fearless (Everything) now grants a +20 bonus to all Willpower Tests for any allies fighting alongside you within Willpower Bonus Yards.

Kislev Kossar

“Kossars fight on foot with axe and bow and their name is descended from an Ungol tribe that previously fought as mercenaries for the Gospodars against the other Ungols when they first invaded. As a result, joining the kossars is seen as a way of cutting their ties and escaping a difficult past.

The officers accept anyone who can pass the fitness tests, and Tzar Boris granted new kossars a full pardon for any crimes committed before they joined. This pardon does not, of course, apply to crimes committed after becoming a kossar. Contemporary kossars include both Ungols and Gospodars, and they have more than their fair share of criminals, bored younger sons, and general troublemakers. This structure means they have an even worse off-duty reputation than most soldiers.

Their Boyars do not keep records of the number of kossars executed for their crimes against civilians, as the numbers would be too embarrassing. The Ice Queen would like to restore the kossars pay and increase the size of the army, introducing elements of cavalry. However, many nobles, both Gospodar and Ungol, are very suspicious of any moves to increase the size of the standing army and have encouraged winged lancers and horse archers to see any attempt to include cavalry in the standing army as an insult to their prowess. On the other hand, they are extremely effective in battle, as they are trained constantly and drilled in battlefield tactics and maneuvers. This reputation is also widespread, so a settlement facing imminent attack is always glad to see the kossars but also keen to see them leave again.

Originally, the Kossars were an Ungol tribe that lived northeast of the Empire. An eastern people known as the Gospodars invaded this region, subjugated the Ungols, and founded the nation of Kislev. During this conflict, the kossars sold their skills to the Gospodars as Mercenaries, fighting against other Ungol tribes. Their unique style of fighting impressed the Gospodar nobility, and since that time Kossar regiments have served the Tsars of Kislev. These days the Kossars are no longer a tribe, but a tough military unit drawn from all over Kislev. They are armed with bows and great axes, making them quite flexible on the battlefield. Many kossars, tired of the ceaseless warfare of their native land, travel to the Empire to become Mercenaries or adventurers.”—Warhammer Wiki Kossars start with the Psychology Defender of Kislev granting them Immunity to Fear and Intimidation when defending Kislev from invaders; however, they must answer any call to action from the Tzar/Tzarina to defend their country.

Once they reach the final rank in their career, as a Streltsi, the Kossar gains the Elite Trait when defending their homeland, granting them a +20 bonus to their Weapon Skill, Ballistic Skill and Willpower.

This bonus does not carry over to other portions of the world as their fighting spirit is only at its peak when protecting their homeland and loved ones from the horrors that ravage their country.

Melee (Polearm)—Poleaxe: Scarce, 8 GC
Enc: 3 Range: Very Long Damage: SB+6
Weapon Qualities: Hack, Impact, Tiring

Kossar Advance Scheme

Starting Characteristics: Weapon Skill, Ballistic Skill and Strength

Career Rank 2 Characteristic: Toughness

Career Rank 3 Characteristic: Initiative

Career Rank 4 Characteristic: Willpower

WS	BS	S	T	I	Ag	Dex	Int	WP	Fel
✚	✚	✚	✚	☠				☠

Kossar—Silver 1 (Warrior)

Skills: Athletics, Cool, Dodge, Endurance, Intimidate, Melee (Basic), Melee (Two-handed), Ranged (Bow)

Talents: Combat Aware, Deadeye Shot, Drilled, Iron Jaw

Trappings: Bow, Leather Jack, Winter Coat and Hat, 10 Arrows

Kossar Sergeant—Silver 3

Skills: Consume Alcohol, Gamble, Haggle, Language (Battle), Perception, Ranged (Thrown)

Talents: Accurate Shot, Combat Reflexes, Resolute, Warleader

Trappings: Great Weapon (Great Axe or Curved Bastard Sword), Symbol of Rank

Streltsi—Gold 1

Skills: Charm, Gossip, Ranged (Black Powder), Pray

Talents: Coolheaded, Frightening, Gunner, Marksman

Trappings: Handgun, Poleaxe, 10 Powder and Bullets

Streltsi Captain—Gold 2

Skills: Melee (Polearm), Lore (Warfare)

Talents: Menacing, Robust, Strike Mighty Blow, Sure Shot

Trappings: Breastplate and Helmet, Small Unit of Streltsi

Kislev Winged Lancer

Every Gospodar settlement annually raises a rota of winged lancers. Each spring, eager young men muster alongside veterans and don armor at their rotamaster's command. To the sound of weeping womenfolk, they ride, their winged banners fluttering behind them. Until their return, they are known as the "Riders of the Dead," for they are mourned as if already deceased. Every rota of lancers has a different character. Where some southern examples are like Imperial knights, sporting colorful pennants, intricately decorated armor, and great animal pelts, lancers from beyond the Lynsk are more akin to Ungol nomads, having heavy moustaches, top-knots, and fur-lined charms to ward against evil.

"The famous Winged Lancers of Kislev are mostly made up of young sons of Boyars from all across the lands. It is their duty to always be prepared for war, as invasions of Mother Kislev are an all too common occurrence to simply ignore. Even though they are themselves of only modest rank, the Lancers enjoy a great deal of respect from the people of Kislev for their role in protecting the nation. Each stanitsa or settlement is expected to provide a force of Winged Lancers for the mutual defense of the nation, which are often the focus of great civic pride.

Their standards have usually seen many battles and their loyalty is fanatical. The famed feathered wings are the invention of the great historical warrior, Tzar Alexandr Njevski, whose winged back banner emanated an eerie howl that no Chaos worshipper could endure. The winged lancers are a Gospodar tradition, and most Gospodar stanitsas support a rota, or squadron of them, often consisting of nearly all the men of the settlement.

These mounted warriors are famed for their elaborately decorated armor, most especially the large, feathered 'wings' mounted on their back that make an eerie sound when they charge. The rest of the armor is decorated as richly as the stanitsa can manage, as a matter of pride and the warriors only don their impressive armor immediately before battle to avoid damaging it in everyday use. Unsurprisingly, their primary weapon is the lance, but they also use swords for closer fighting, often discarding their lances after an initial charge. While not as manoeuvrable as the Ungol horse archers, they are still a highly mobile force and the mainstay of Kislevite armies. They are, however, not full-time soldiers and often seem more loyal to their home than to Tzarina Katarin. Nevertheless, they fight bravely against Chaos, and so the Ice Queen is more concerned with other political problems."—Warhammer Wiki

Winged Lancers start with the Psychology Defender of Kislev granting them Immunity to Fear and Intimidation when defending Kislev from invaders; however, they must answer any call to action from the Tzar/Tzarina to defend their country.

Once they reach the final rank in their career, as either a Commander or member of the Gryphon Legion, the Lancer gains the Elite Trait when defending their homeland, granting them a +20 bonus to their Weapon Skill, Ballistic Skill and Willpower.

This bonus does not carry over to other portions of the world as their fighting spirit is only at its peak when protecting their homeland and loved ones from the horrors that ravage their country.

Winged Lancer Advance Scheme

Starting Characteristics: Weapon Skill, Strength and Agility

Career Rank 2 Characteristic: Toughness

Career Rank 3 Characteristic: Fellowship

Career Rank 4 Characteristic: Willpower

WS	BS	S	T	I	Ag	Dex	Int	WP	Fel
✚		✚	✚		✚			☀	☠

Winged Lancer—Silver 3 (Warrior)

Skills: Animal Care, Charm Animal, Endurance, Language (Battle), Melee (Basic), Melee (Cavalry), Perception, Ride (Horse)

Talents: Lightning Reflexes, Roughrider, Strike to Injure, Warrior Born

Trappings: Kislev Light Warhorse with Saddle and Tack, Lance, Mail Armor and Plate Helm, Yellow Riding Boots, Winged Saddle and Tack

Winged Lancer Sergeant—Silver 5

Skills: Consume Alcohol, Cool, Gossip, Melee (Any), Outdoor Survival, Ranged (Blackpowder)

Talents: Etiquette (Soldiers), Seasoned Traveler, Strike Mighty Blow, Trick Riding

Trappings: Fine Officer's Pistol, Symbol of Rank, Winter Coat

Winged Lancer Captain—Gold 1

Skills: Intimidate, Intuition, Leadership, Lore (Warfare)

Talents: Combat Reflexes, Careful Strike, Hatred (Any), Warleader

Trappings: Fine Quality Plate Armor and Helm, Higher Symbol of Rank, Rota of Lancers

Winged Lancer Commander (Ungol)/Gryphon Legion

(Gospodar)—Gold 4

Skills: Heal, Lore (Chaos)

Talents: Fearless (Chaos), Inspiring, Reaction Strike, Reversal

Trappings: Large Shield, Large Rota of Lancers, Highest Symbol of Rank

Divine Lore of Kislev

This section is dedicated to players who wish to roleplay a Priest or War Priest of the Kislevite pantheon. This list provides Miracles, Blessings and Strictures related to their respective gods.

Dazh's Blessings and Strictures:

Battle	Conscience	Courage	Fortune	Protection	Wit
--------	------------	---------	---------	------------	-----

- Never let a fire go out during the night. Many interpret this stricture as never leaving a fire unattended.
- Never light a fire on a dirty hearth.
- Always give hospitality to those who ask for it, even enemies. Leave none out in the cold.
- Offer sacrifices to Dazh on the first day of the winter snows, so he returns with all speed.

Miracles of Dazh

Dazh is the God of fire, the sun, and hospitality. He has been worshipped in the lands of Kislev for uncounted centuries and is believed to have taught early Ungol tribesmen the secrets of fire. Priests of Dazh are warm-hearted individuals who take deep pride in their hearts and homes, and many bedeck themselves in sacred gold. Those who call upon Dazh often prefer heat to cold and may feel uncomfortable when the sun sets.

Blessing of Dazh

Target: 1

Duration: Fellowship Bonus Rounds

Range: Touch

Description: The target you touch becomes blessed with Dazh's favor. For the duration of the spell, the target has all Ablaze conditions removed and cannot gain any more, and takes half damage (rounding up) from any source of fire, after reducing the damage by other normal means.

Gift of Fire

Target: Special

Duration: Fellowship Bonus Hours

Range: Special

Description: Your prayers summon a welcoming campfire that appears anywhere within range. It does not consume any fuel, does not ignite flammable material, but does emit heat that warms living flesh (and living flesh only), can be used to cook food and negate the effects of cold weather.

Brilliance

Target: You

Duration: Willpower Bonus Rounds

Range: AoE Fellowship Yards

Description: Your prayers summon a blinding wave of holy fire. All creatures within range must pass an Agility Test or be dazzled by the fire. Affected creatures take a -20 penalty on Weapon Skill, Ballistic Skill, Agility, and Perception Tests. Targets without eyes, or who have shielded their eyes, are immune to brilliance.

Dazh Szheg!

Target: AoE

Duration: Instant

Range: Fellowship Bonus Yards

Description: You call upon Dazh to burn his enemies, and a beam of holy light engulfs your opponents. All creatures in the area must succeed on a Difficult (-10) Agility Test or take +4 damage that ignores armor. A target that loses 1 or more Wounds also catches your Fellowship Bonus in Ablaze conditions.

Dance of the Alari

Target: Special

Duration: 1 hour

Range: Fellowship Bonus Miles

Description: You ask Dazh to illuminate the night, and he answers with his warrior-consorts—the Alari. The northern sky lights up with eerie fires as the Alari dance. This illumination is enough light to see by.

Rouse the Coals

Target: 1

Duration: Instant

Range: Fellowship Bonus Yards

Description: You utter a prayer celebrating Dazh awakening from his bed of coals in the east. Your target, if flammable (as determined by the GM), immediately bursts into flames taking 2d10+WPB Ablaze Conditions.

Sacred Guest

Target: 1

Duration: Special

Range: Touch

Description: You invoke Dazh to bless your time as a guest in another's home. If your host abuses his position or is a poor host, Dazh curses him. The curse, which is decided by the GM, could include: fires failing to light, fires giving no heat, or fuel burning at quadruple rate. The curse lasts until the host apologizes to you or prays for forgiveness at a Temple of Dazh.

Wreath of Flame

Target: You

Duration: Fellowship Bonus Rounds

Range: You

Description: Your chants wreath your body in holy flame. Anyone attempting to strike you with a handheld weapon must succeed on a Challenging (+0) Will Power Test or take a -30 penalty to their WS or BS Skill Test as the heat drives them back from the attack. Even a successful test imposes a -10 penalty. Whilst wreath of flame is in effect, you are immune to all damage from fire-based attacks.

Tor's Blessings and Strictures:

Battle	Courage	Hardiness	Might	Savagery	Tenacity
--------	---------	-----------	-------	----------	----------

- Never stand under a tree during a thunderstorm.

Miracles of Tor

Tor is the God of thunder, lightning, and war. He is popular amongst the war-like Kislevites and was worshipped in the area long before the Gospodars arrived. Priests of Tor are often taciturn and belligerent, and many wield war axes detailed in sacred silver. Those who call upon Tor can be quick to anger, and many are drawn to high locations, such as mountains or tall towers. At the GM's whim, any use of Torinyi prayers involving thunder, lightning, or rain may bring on a full storm.

Wrath of Tor

Target: You

Duration: Fellowship Bonus Rounds

Range: You

Description: Energy crackles over the weapon, imbuing it with the favor of Tor. The weapon counts as magical and gains Lightning damage: Any Wounds caused ignore armor and the target must roll a Challenging (+0) Endurance test or gain a Stunned Condition. In addition, your prayers change the quality of the air, fooling sensitive animals into believing a storm is coming. Small creatures and herd beasts automatically flee from the priest. Other animals, or those controlled by another, must pass an Average (+20) Will Power Test or flee.

Call of Tor

Target: You

Duration: Fellowship Bonus Rounds

Range: AoE Fellowship Bonus Miles (1.6 Kilometers)

Description: You bellow prayers skywards, and Tor responds with a great deal of thunder. All Kislevites and party allies in range may attack twice on a single charge attack action.

Cleave the Sky

Target: Special

Duration: 1 day

Range: 3 miles (4.8 Kilometers)

Description: You invoke Tor to cleave the sky with his mighty war axe. Clouds roil high above, and after 1d10 rounds, a heavy downpour of rain, sleet, snow, or hail (as appropriate) begins. Each round, all affected targets must pass a Challenging (+0) Agility Test, or their movement is halved. Cleave the sky may only be attempted if the sky is already overcast.

Do Tor!

Target: Special

Duration: Instant

Range: Fellowship Yards

Description: You entreat Tor to unleash his fury, and a bolt of lightning streaks towards your target. Do Tor! is a magic missile that deals +5 damage that ignores armor. Each additional +2 SL fires an additional stream of lightning at an additional separate target or divided evenly between enemies if the number of magic missiles exceeds the number of targets available. If no targets are around, strike the same enemy with each additional missile. If a target is killed, the lightning arcs to another enemy (if any remain) within 4 yards of the target and continues to do so until a target survives.

Incoming Storm

Target: You

Duration: Willpower Minutes

Range: AoE Fellowship Yards

Description: Your prayers increase the tension in the air, preparing those around you for an incoming conflict. Whenever any character within range of the spell when it was cast is Surprised, they may immediately attempt an Average (+20) Will Power Test to overcome surprise and act normally.

Thunder of War

Target: You

Duration: Instant

Range: AoE Fellowship Yards

Description: Your prayers amplify the sounds of all nearby Conflicts, as the sound of thunder blasts around you, piercing the eardrums of all nearby enemies. All enemies within range must succeed on a Hard (-20) Fear Test. If they fail with a -SL of 6 or more, they gain a number of Broken Conditions equal to your Fellowship Bonus.

Tor's Fury

Target: You

Duration: Fellowship Bonus Rounds

Range: You

Description: You entreat Tor to bless your war efforts. When using an axe, every time you succeed in attacking in an Opposed WS test, you automatically inflict one Critical Wound. If you roll a Critical Hit with this effect active, you instead roll for two Critical Wounds on the Critical Wounds Table.

Ursun's Blessings and Strictures:

Battle	Courage	Hardiness	The Hunt	Might	Righteousness
--------	---------	-----------	----------	-------	---------------

- Never hunt a bear in winter—let him sleep as he lets you sleep.
- Wake the bear in the spring, and feed him well before his winter rests.
- Bears must only be killed by the strength of your hand or the flight of an arrow.
- Only display the hide, claw, tooth, or skull of a bear you have killed yourself.
- Shun the comforts of indoor life whenever possible. In particular, all ablutions and bathing must be done outdoors.
- Eat fish at least once a week, as the bear does. Never eat fish and another meat on the same day, as this is wasteful.

Miracles of Ursun

Ursun is the God of bears and patron of Kislev. His cult was introduced by the Gospodars almost a thousand years ago and is now the most powerful in the land. Priests of Ursun tend to be wild individuals, and many wear sacred skins and holy bear bones. Those calling upon Ursun are often uncomfortable around the trappings of civilization and frequently grow lethargic in winter.

Blessing of Ursun

Target: 1

Duration: Willpower Bonus Hours

Range: Fellowship Bonus Yards

Description: Your prayers grant the target a +20 bonus to all Navigation and Outdoor Survival Tests taken in forests, mountains, plains or caves.

Blessing of the Licked Paw

Target: You

Duration: Instant

Range: You

Description: You growl a plea to Ursun to lessen a wound's pain. The priest counts as if medical attention has been received. Cure yourself of one Injury (broken bone or torn muscle) that has occurred within the past hour; moreover, each additional +SL cures 1 Bleed Condition and heals your Wounds by 1.

Father Bear

Target: Special

Duration: Special

Range: 1 Mile

Description: Your prayer stirs one of Ursun's servants. One bear within range will not attack unless attacked and will answer any questions you pose it, drawing from its own knowledge (not Ursun's). Its voice is sonorous and noble, and it speaks in the mother tongue of the priest. The priest may roll an Average (+20)

Fellowship Test to recruit the bear into your party temporarily until it wishes to go home (GM's discretion).

Growling Fury

Target: You

Duration: Fellowship Bonus Rounds

Range: You

Description: Your chants fill you with implacable, ferocious rage. You gain the +1 Battle Rage, +1 Menacing and Frenzy Talents and a +10 bonus to Willpower and Toughness Tests.

Skin of the Ice Bear

Target: You

Duration: Fellowship Bonus Rounds

Range: You

Description: Your prayers draw an Ice Bear's spirit within you. For the duration, all of your attacks deal +1 Damage, you gain +1 AP on all body parts, and you gain the Acute Senses (All) and the +1 Fearless (Everything) Talents.

Unyielding Ursun

Target: You

Duration: Fellowship Bonus Rounds

Range: AoE Fellowship Yards

Description: Your rousing prayers tap deep into Kislevite national pride. All Kislevites and party members within range gain the +1 Fearless (Everything) and +1 Unbreakable Talents.

Ursine Strength

Target: You

Duration: Fellowship Bonus Rounds

Range: You

Description: Your chant grants you some of Ursun's strength. You gain a +20 bonus on all Strength and Brawling Tests, another +10 towards Strength when grappling Size (Medium) or smaller creatures (for a total of +30), and all your Melee Attacks deal +1 Damage. Grappling tests with Size (Large) creatures no longer require a Critical Success.

Winter's Sleep

Target: You

Duration: Willpower Bonus Rounds

Range: AoE Fellowship yards

Description: Your prayers bring the deep sleep of winter upon your enemies. All living creatures (including allies), aside from the caster, in the area must succeed on an Average (+20) Will Power Test or fall into a deep sleep. Sleeping characters are helpless.

Norscan Mercenary

“The Norscan Bondsman is a warrior in service to a particular Jarl. He is expected to live in the Jarl’s Hall, share the Jarl’s food, and be steadfastly loyal. In exchange for his pledge of loyalty, the Jarl rewards service with gifts, such as weapons and armor, and to the very best, land and title. The worth of the gift is never measured in actual value, but rather the prestige it bestows on the Bondsman. It’s important to remember such gifts do not make the Bondsman a mercenary; rather, it is a reward for constant and loyal service.

Norscan Freeholders are typically Bondsmen whom have been gifted with property as a means of rewarding his most able-bodied warriors, since one of the greatest rewards a Jarl may grant to his Bondsmen and loyal Peasants is land. Upon gaining property, these men and women are accorded a special status. For those who were not warriors, they have the same status as Bondsmen. For those who were once warriors, land is usually a gift given in exchange for lengthy and valued service. Many Freeholders eventually become Jarls if selected by their King. Otherwise, they gain a piece of land and a number of Thralls to work it.

In the cold lands of Norsca, community bonds are essential for survival. Those who serve their lord faithfully and at length are rewarded with property of their own. Freeholders are men and women who have been rewarded for years of loyal service with land, and thralls to work it for them. Farming land that is frozen for six months out of the year is difficult; much of the meagre wealth produced in Norsca comes from its timber and its mines, some of which produces amber, a rare substance used in making handsome jewelry.

A freeholder whose land includes the entrance to a mine could become relatively rich. Freeholders are rarely farmers or miners themselves, preferring to get the thralls to do all the hard work. They may aspire to be one day; the reward for faithful service to their lord.

Warriors are favored above all others for promotion to the position of jarl, and the majority of Norscans can wield a sword or axe with a fair amount of proficiency. Those who cannot are relegated to the lower class and are disdained if not openly held in contempt.

Because of their status as travelers and traders, many Norscan freeholders have regular contact with Empire or Kislevite merchants. Norscans sometimes hire themselves out as mercenaries, and as such are highly respected and feared warriors. These will often have contacts with mercenary captains, minor nobles and officers within the standing armed forces of areas in which they serve.”—Warhammer Wiki

Norscan Mercenary Advance Scheme

Starting Characteristics: Weapon Skill, Strength and Willpower

Career Rank 2 Characteristic: Toughness

Career Rank 3 Characteristic: Initiative

Career Rank 4 Characteristic: Agility

WS	BS	S	T	I	Ag	Dex	Int	WP	Fel
✚		✚	✚	☠	♥			✚

Norscan Freeholder—Brass 5 (Warrior)

Skills: Consume Alcohol, Cool, Dodge, Endurance, Heal, Language (Norse), Melee (Basic), Swim

Talents: Dual Wielder, Sturdy, Frenzy, (Slayer or Mark of the Gods)

Trappings: Axe or Norse Shield, Leather Armor, Tribal Tattoos

Norscan Mercenary—Silver 1

Skills: Intimidate, Language (Battle), Melee (Two-handed), Outdoor Survival, Ranged (Thrown), Sail

Talents: Ambidextrous, Berserk Charge, Disarm, Iron Jaw

Trappings: Animal Hide Cloak, Great Axe or Warhammer, Horned Helmet, Throwing Axes or Javelins

Norscan Huskarl—Silver 5

Skills: Leadership, Lore (Chaos), Melee (Flail or Polearm), Perception

Talents: Battle Rage, Fearless (Everything), Resistance (Mutation), Robust

Trappings: Breastplate, Large Shield, Military Flail or Pike

Jarl Warlord—Gold 6

Skills: Intuition, Lore (Warfare)

Talents: Combat Master, Frightening, Relentless, Strike Mighty Blow

Trappings: Land in Norsca, Large Unit of Bondsmen, Spoils of War (10d100 Gold), Your Own Named Tribe

Mark of the Gods

Max: 4

Norscans worship many gods, but the dominant powers lay in the hands of Chaos. Anyone who picks this talent pays 100 XP with an additional XP cost of 100 per Talent advance—100XP>200XP>300XP>400XP. You may only purchase this Talent once per career level, with a maximum of four. Those who purchase this Talent may select one chosen god from the list below; moreover, they cannot retract or remove this Talent once it is taken, and the god selected cannot be changed.

Once purchased, the player must roll 1d10+2 Corruption points minus their Willpower Bonus with a minimum of 1 point. This increases by +1 each subsequent Talent advancement—1d10+2, 1d10+3, 1d10+4, 1d10+5. If a physical mutation manifests, the GM rolls based off the selected god on the Physical and Mental Mutation tables found in the Enemy in Shadows Companion (Physical pg. 68-72, Mental pg. 74-76).

Note: For players or GM's who don't want a campaign involving Norsca players turning to chaos or causing complications for the group, we have added the option to instead pick the Slayer talent instead of the Mark of the Gods. Mark of the Gods is intended for use by the Norscan player after having given full discretion to the GM and the other players that it could cause problems for a non-Chaos focused party or campaign.

The Hound (Khorne)

Worshipper of the Hound:

-While Frenzy is activated, you can now score a Critical Hit on a tens result when using axes—10, 20, 30, 40, etc.

Warrior of the Hound:

-Gain +1 Movement while Frenzied.

-While Frenzy is activated, you ignore all your current Conditions (except for Ablaze) until Frenzy has ended, then all prior Conditions return as normal.

Champion of the Hound:

-When wielding an axe while Frenzied, the user now gains the Hack and Damaging Weapon Qualities on all one-handed axes.
-If using a two-handed Great Axe while Frenzied, it now loses the Tiring Quality for Impact.

Chosen of the Hound:

-When Frenzied, gain the Champion Trait.

-Warp Frenzy: Whilst Frenzied, you have the option to temporarily gain another random physical mutation for 1d10 minutes. Roll 1d10 on the table below to see your mutation. You gain 1 Corruption point if used.

Roll	Physical Mutations
1	Iron Skin: +2 Armour Points to all locations, -10 Agility
2	Multiple Arms: Gain one Free Attack
3	Multiple Legs: Gain +1 Movement
4	Skull Face: Gain the Fear 2 Creature Trait
5	Spiked Skin/Armor: +1 Armour Points on all locations; gain a Free Attack (SB+4) when Charging
6	Thorny Scales: +1 Armour Points to all locations
7	Three Eyes: Gain the Acute Sense (Vision) Talent
8	Transparent Skin: Gain the Fear 2 Creature Trait
9	Uneven Horns: +1 Armour Points to the Head and adds Horns; counts as a Creature Weapon of Damage equal to your SB+4
10	Wings: Gain the Flight 60 Creature Trait

The Serpent (Slaanesh)

Worshipper of the Serpent:

-Gain the Attractive Talent.

-Gain the Inhuman Beauty mutation (+10 Fellowship; you do not scar).

Warrior of the Serpent:

-Injuries recover in half the time they normally take, and maimed body parts regenerate after 1d10 days, unless decapitated.

-Gain an improved Thrill Seeker Mental Mutation (+10 Willpower, +10 Initiative).

-You cannot age past your prime, and if you are of older age, your body regresses back to the height of your physical attractiveness.

Champion of the Serpent:

-Every Critical Hit you deal against an enemy gives you a Fellowship bonus of +10 for 1d10 hours.

-Every Critical Hit you take grants you a Fellowship bonus of +10 for 1d10 hours.

-Every Enemy you kill gives you a Fellowship bonus of +10 for 1d10 hours.

-Wargasm: As a Main Action, you can transfer all modified Fellowship bonuses gained during combat into Advantage. Convert all modified Fellowship gained in 10's into a single Advantage each: +20 Fellowship gained equals +2 Advantage, for instance. Advantage gained caps out at your Initiative Bonus.

Chosen of the Serpent:

-Princely Beauty: All allies within view of your glorious beauty gain +1 advantage at the start of combat.

-You gain Immunity to Psychology.

-Graceful Strike: You channel the power of the serpent and as an Attack Action, can add your modified Fellowship Bonus to your Damage in a successful Opposed Weapon Skill Test: A Fellowship Bonus of 6 adds 6 damage to your attack. You gain 1 Corruption point if used.

The Crow (Nurgle)

Worshiper of the Crow:

- You gain the Painless Trait.
- You gain the Infected Trait during combat and may inflict a Festering Wound (pg. 186) upon successfully wounding an enemy. The Festering Wound is instantaneous and does not require an incubation period.

Warrior of the Crow:

- Gain the Infestation Trait during combat.
- You gain the Immunity (Disease) Trait.

Champion of the Crow:

- Gain the Corrosive Blood Trait.
- You gain the Immunity (Poison) Trait.

Chosen of the Crow:

- You gain the Die Hard Trait.
- You gain the Immunity (Bleeding) Trait.
- Vomit: The creature can spew a stream of corrosive bile, dowsing its opponents in foul, semi-digested filth. On its turn, by spending 3 Advantage, the Chosen can activate its Vomit as a Free Attack. The Chosen chooses 1 target it can see within Toughness Bonus yards and let loose; all targets within two yards are also hit. The creature performs an Opposed Ballistic Skill/Dodge Test against all affected targets (its single roll opposed by each individual target). Test is typically Easy (+40) for the vomiting creature, due to the close range, and Challenging (+0) for opponents. All losing targets suffer a hit with a Weapon Damage of the creature's Toughness Bonus +4 and receive a Stunned condition. All Armor and Weapons carried by affected targets suffer 1 Damage as the acidic vomit corrodes it away. Gain 1 Corruption point if used.

The Eagle (Tzeentch)

Worshiper of the Eagle:

- Gain both the +1 Second Sight and +1 Magical Sense Talents.
- Gain the Ward (10+) Trait.

Warrior of the Eagle:

- All attacks now count as Magical.
- Gain Dark Vision.
- Gain the Ward (9+) Trait.

Champion of the Eagle:

- Gain the Language (All) Skill.
- Gain the Clever Trait.
- Gain the Ward (8+) Trait.

Chosen of the Eagle:

- Gain the Cunning Trait.
- Gain the Ward (7+) Trait.
- Eagle's Eye: The Chosen's gaze can turn flesh to flame. For its Action, it can spend all its Advantage to unleash its gaze (Minimum 3). The Chosen performs an Opposed Intelligence/Initiative test, adding 1 SL per Advantage spent. Its opponent gains 1 Stunned and 1 Ablaze Condition per 1 SL by which the Chosen wins. If it wins by at least 6 SL, its Target's head bursts into pink and blue flame, killing it instantly. Gain 1 Corruption point if used.

The Eight-Pointed Star (Undivided)

Worshiper of the Gods:

- Gain the +1 Fearless (Everything) and +1 Drilled Talents.
- Gain the Leader Trait.

Warrior Undivided:

- Gain the +1 Commanding Presence Talent and gain +20 to your Fellowship Tests for influencing Servants of Chaos--Mutants, Beastmen, Demons, Cultists, Warriors of Chaos and Corrupted Beasts. (All Fellowship and Intimidation Tests)
- You may re-roll any failed Fear or Terror Test, or any failed Test to resist Intimidation once per encounter. If the re-roll succeeds, ignore the first failure.

Champion Undivided:

- Gain the Hatred (Order) Talent—Bretonnia, Elves, Empire and lesser Human Civilizations, Dwarfs, Lizardmen, Tomb Kings and Wood Elves.
- Might Makes Right: Amongst Chaos, power and authority are synonymous, with strong Chaos Warriors naturally viewed as leaders by those beneath them. The servants of Chaos understand that respect only comes to those with the might to claim it. When dealing with other Servants of Chaos, a Champion may use their status to rally other Chaos forces into conceiving they're the leader and may replace any Fellowship Tests with Intimidation Tests.

Chosen Undivided:

- Gain the Hatred (Destruction) Talent—Undead, Greenskins, Skaven and Ogres.
- You gain the Champion Trait when fighting your most hated foes.
- You now get a +40 instead of a +20 for influencing the Servants of Chaos. (All Fellowship and Intimidation Tests)
- Gain the +1 Inspiring and +1 War Leader Talents, and the Elite Trait when in combat against the forces of Order or Destruction.

Arabyan Janissary

The Janissaries (meaning "new soldier") were elite infantry units that formed the Araby Sultan's household troops, bodyguards and the first advanced infantry in Araby. The corps was most likely established before the Crusades as elite infantry.

They began as an elite corps of slaves made up of kidnapped young children who were converted to The Cult of the Great Prophet and became famed for internal cohesion cemented by strict discipline and order. Unlike typical slaves, they were paid regular salaries. Forbidden to marry or engage in trade, their complete loyalty to the Sultan was expected. By the thirteenth century IC, due to a dramatic increase in the size of the Araby standing army, the corps' initially strict recruitment policy was relaxed. Civilians bought their way into it in order to benefit from the improved socioeconomic status it conferred upon them.

Consequently, the corps gradually lost its military character, undergoing a process that has been described as 'civilianization'. The Janissaries were a highly formidable military unit in the early years, but after the Crusades, its military organization had declined, and the Janissaries became a force of change, subverting their religious dogma and embracing firearms. Steadily the rest of the Arabyan military power became outdated by comparison.

The Janissary corps were distinctive in a number of ways. They wore unique uniforms, were paid regular salaries (including bonuses) for their service, marched to music, lived in barracks and were the first corps to make extensive use of firearms in Araby. A Janissary battalion was a close-knit community, effectively the soldier's family. By tradition, the Sultan himself, after authorizing the payments to the Janissaries, visited the barracks and received his pay alongside the other men of the First Division, but this tradition slowly eroded. They also serve as policemen, palace guards, mercenaries and fire fighters during peacetime.

The Janissaries also enjoy far better support on campaign than other troops of the sultanate. They are part of a well-organized military machine, in which one support corps prepares the roads while others pitch tents and bake the bread. They campaign with their own medical teams of Araby and Strigany surgeons and their sick and wounded are evacuated to dedicated mobile hospitals set up behind the lines. These differences, along with an impressive war-record, make the janissaries a subject of interest and study by Old World scholars.

Due to current state of Araby no longer being a unified superpower, many Janissary find themselves seeking work outside their homeland, travelling as far north as the Empire seeking fortune and glory in the name of The Great Prophet.

The Great Prophet's Blessings: Symbol grants one Blessing of the Great Prophet for an entire day for either yourself or a party member after a successful Pray Test but may only be used once per week. On a failed Pray Test, you must wait an entire day to attempt again.

Battle	Courage	Grace	Protection	Tenacity	Wisdom
--------	---------	-------	------------	----------	--------

Arabyan Janissary Advance Scheme

Starting Characteristics: Weapon Skill, Ballistic Skill and Initiative

Career Rank 2 Characteristic: Dexterity

Career Rank 3 Characteristic: Agility

Career Rank 4 Characteristic: Willpower

WS	BS	S	T	I	Ag	Dex	Int	WP	Fel
✚	✚			✚	☠	✚		☠

Recruit — Silver 1 (Ranger)

Skills: Athletics, Dodge, Endurance, Language (Battle), Melee (Basic), Play (Drums), Pray, Ranged (Blackpowder)

Talents: Gunner, Step Aside, Supportive, Well-prepared

Trappings: Mess Kit, Pistol, Quality Uniform, Yatagan (Sword), 10 Powder and Bullets, 1d10 Bandages

Janissary — Silver 3

Skills: Charm, Cool, Melee (Parry), Ranged (Explosives), Trade (Explosives), Trade (Gunsmith)

Talents: Combat Aware, Drilled, Fast Shot, Sprinter

Trappings: Gunsmith Tools, Symbol of Rank

Sergeant — Silver 5

Skills: Bribery, Leadership, Perception, Ranged (Engineer)

Talents: Accurate Shot, Disarm, Rapid Reload, War Leader

Trappings: Repeater Handgun, Symbol of the Great Prophet

Ağa (Chief Commander)— Gold 2

Skills: Heal, Lore (Warfare)

Talents: Linguistics, Strike to Injure, Sniper, Sure Shot

Trappings: Hochland Long Rifle, Symbol of Rank, Very High-Quality Uniform

Ind Ahadi

These superb heavy cavalry troops are important shock troops in the Ind armies. These soldiers are dressed in the finest uniforms and have saddles encrusted in precious gems. Their weapons and equipment share the same niceties, with their horses perfectly turned out and decorated with tassels. The Ahadis would look entirely at home guarding a magnificently appointed palace, as they served a dual purpose as the elite guards to the Kings of Ind. Ahadi are practical warriors for a working battle, with a good grasp of tactics and the skills needed to cut almost any enemy to ribbons, as they charge home, jeweled tassels gleaming in the sun, as each horse appears winged in the eyes of their enemies.

Each man is hand-picked, trained to ride with masterful skill, and given the very best horses and equipment the Kings of Ind can offer. “Ahadi” literally means “royal messenger” in Ind, and the message they delivered on the battlefield was a devastating one of terror and violence. Their ferocity is only matched by their devout and unwavering faith in Gilgadresh and Brahmira, two of the dominant gods of the Kingdoms of Ind.

Ahadis are the Ind equivalent of elite cavalry. As lancer and gunner cavalry, Ahadis naturally have very versatility on the battlefield, able to switch between lightning fast shock cavalry and highly effective fire support.

Ahadi are the midway between the nobles or leaders with the horsemen under them on the one hand, and the infantry, artillery, and artificers on the other. They offered their services singly, they did not attach themselves to any chief, thus forming a class apart from the rest of the armies, often being seen as mercenaries to standard Ind troops. They have the Kings for their immediate colonels. They are the most trusted troops of the reigning sovereigns, and some of these men will attach to his person from his youth and serve under him while he is a royal prince, thus marking the Ahadi soldier out in a special manner as the king’s personal adherents and household troops.

Gilgadresh’s Blessings: Symbol grants +1 Fortune to pool.

Charisma	Courage	Fortune	Protection	Wisdom	Wit
----------	---------	---------	------------	--------	-----

Brahmir’s Blessings: Symbol grants +1 Resolve to pool.

Battle	Courage	Fortune	Grace	Might	Righteousness
--------	---------	---------	-------	-------	---------------

Ind Ahadi Advance Scheme

Starting Characteristics: Weapon Skill, Ballistic Skill and Agility

Career Rank 2 Characteristic: Strength

Career Rank 3 Characteristic: Fellowship

Career Rank 4 Characteristic: Intelligence

WS	BS	S	T	I	Ag	Dex	Int	WP	Fel
+	+	+			+		+		+

Ahadi Cavalryman—Silver 1 (Warrior)

Skills: Animal Care, Charm Animal, Endurance, Language (Battle), Melee (Basic), Navigation, Perception, Ride (Horse)

Talents: Drilled, Roughrider, Strike Mighty Blow, Warrior Born

Trappings: Breastplate (Boiled Leather), Kukri (Dagger), Light Warhorse with Saddle and Tack, Turban

Ahadi Elite—Silver 4

Skills: Bribery, Charm, Cool, Gossip, Melee (Polearm), Ranged (Blackpowder)

Talents: Etiquette (Nobles), Read/Write, Supportive, Trick Riding

Trappings: Mail Coat, Symbol of Rank, Quality Gun, Quality Uniform

Royal Guard—Gold 1

Skills: Intuition, Leadership, Lore (Etiquette), Lore (Politics)

Talents: Lucky, Nose for Trouble, Schemer, Strike to Injure

Trappings: Courtly Garb, Symbol of Gilgadresh or Brahmira, Quality Weapon (Any), 10 Throwing Knives

Royal Captain—Gold 3

Skills: Lore (Warfare), Ride (Elephant)

Talents: Commanding Presence, Implacable, Inspiring, Riposte

Trappings: Ahadi Bodyguards, Fine Jewelry, Ind War Elephant with Battle Howdah (Saddle/Reinforced Carriage Box), Network of Spies

Ind War Elephant (Enormous):

M	WS	BS	S	T	I	Ag	Dex	Int	WP	Fel	W
7	45	0	50	65	30	25	0	20	30	10	80

Traits: Armor 2, Horns (Tusks), Night Vision, Skittish, Stride, Trained (Broken, Mount, War), Weapon +9

Optional: Champion, Clever, Elite, Frenzy, Hardy, Rear, Tough

Cathayan Dragon Monk

Among the greatest warriors in the East reside within the Temple of the Celestial Dragon Monks. An ancient and powerful order, the Dragon Monks are masters of unarmed combat. Warriors sometimes journey to the temple seeking training, though very few meet the strict requirements, or even survive their first encounter with a member of the order.

Established thousands of years ago, so ancient no records can recall an exact date, the order of Monks train rigorously across the mountains of Grand Cathay. Highly disciplined and nearly unbeatable in unarmed combat, the Dragon Monks are among the elite fighting forces at the disposal of the Dragon Emperor, called in as elite anti-infantry soldiers so effective in close-quarter combat that even Orcs are rumored to prefer longer reaching weapons when engaging them in a fight for fear of being knocked cold in a single punch.

The truly masterful monks are said to travel to the highest peaks of the mountains, searching for jade tigers to fight in a one-on-one duel to the death--the monk walking away a grand master of the martial arts should they survive such a dangerous encounter.

Their fighting styles take influence and mirror that of the 8 Winds of Magic, consisting of 8 unique and difficult to master Paths of unarmed combat, some more brutal and destructive, while others grant better self-preservation or precision strikes.

Nevertheless, each style is unique in their own way, testing the monk's abilities to their breaking points and making them nearly unbeatable against anyone foolish enough to challenge them should they complete their decades-long training. It is said an experienced monk can even slay an enemy in one blow to the chest with their palms, rupturing innards and stopping their heartrate altogether. These stories have attracted the interest of some in the Old World—even seeking this power for themselves.

The Celestial Dragon Emperor: The Dragon Monk uses Perform (Meditation) instead of Pray for Blessings.

Battle	Courage	Fortune	Hardiness	Might	Protection
--------	---------	---------	-----------	-------	------------

Melee (Brawling)--Tiger Claws: Exotic, 6 GC

Enc: 1 Reach: Short Damage: SB+4 Qualities: Hack

Melee (Two-handed)--Cathayan Longsword: Exotic, 100 GC

Enc: 3 Reach: Long Damage: SB+6 Qualities: Damaging, Fast, Fine 3, Penetrating

“Weapons crafted by the skilled smiths of Cathay and Nippon are much sought-after items in the Old World and have been known to fetch staggering sums of gold. If, of course, a player ever lays their hands upon such a finely wrought blade they would immediately understand why.”—WFRP 2E, Companion

Cathayan Dragon Monk Advance Scheme

Starting Characteristics: Weapon Skill, Strength and Agility

Career Rank 2 Characteristic: Dexterity

Career Rank 3 Characteristic: Willpower

Career Rank 4 Characteristic: Initiative

WS	BS	S	T	I	Ag	Dex	Int	WP	Fel
✚		✚		♥	✚	✚		☠

Novice Monk—Brass 4 (Warrior)

Skills: Athletics, Climb, Cool, Dodge, Heal, Melee (Brawling), Melee (Polearm), Perform (Meditation)

Talents: Combat Reflexes, Disarm, Hardy, Martial Artist (Path)

Trappings: Monk Robes, Shaved Head, Quarterstaff

Dragon Monk—Silver 2

Skills: Art (Tattoo), Gossip, Outdoor Survival, Play (Flute), Sleight of Hand, Stealth (Any)

Talents: Combat Aware, Enclosed Fighter, Fleet Footed, In-Fighter

Trappings: Prayer Beads, Quality Monk Robes

Martial Arts Dragon Master—Silver 4

Skills: Endurance, Melee (Two-handed), Perception, Perform (Acrobatics)

Talents: Reversal, Robust, Step Aside, Strong-Minded

Trappings: Apprentice Monks, Dragon Tattoo (Arms and Body), Tiger Claws (Brawling), Training Temple

Dragon Monk Grand Master—Gold 1

Skills: Art (Painting), Lore (Dragons)

Talents: Careful Strike, Combat Master, Furious Assault, Reaction Strike

Trappings: Cathayan Longsword, Highest Quality Monk Robes, Unit of Dragon Monks

Martial Art (Path)

Max: 4

After many harsh years of training, you are ready to place yourself on one of the 8 paths towards becoming a master martial artist. Your Unarmed attacks no longer have the Undamaging Weapon Flaw; moreover, your Unarmed attacks have Average Reach and deal +2 additional Damage, changing the damage dealt to SB+2. Your Damage increases by an additional +1 per advance for this Talent, up to a maximum of SB+5. You may also roll a Challenging (+0) Opposed Melee (Brawling)/Ranged (Bow/Throwing/Sling) Test against arrows or thrown weapons being used against you.

Choose one of the 8 paths listed, but only one. Anyone who picks this talent pays 100 XP with an additional XP cost of 100 per Talent advance--100XP>200XP>300XP>400XP. You may only purchase this Talent once per career level, with a maximum of four. You cannot change your Path or select an additional Path. All Talents provided by the Path chosen cannot be upgraded and must be learned outside the monk's career to be advanced.

Path of the Flame

Novice: Your fists burn like fire to your enemies, as your strikes following the Path of Flame cause massive internal bleeding. After a successful Unarmed strike, your opponent must roll a Challenging (+0) Opposed Strength/Toughness test or take 1 Bleed Condition. These Bleeds do not have the 10% chance of death.

Apprentice: When you successfully strike the body with your Unarmed attacks and deal Bleed, you may deal your additional +SL in Bleed Conditions against your enemy instead of Damage.

Journeyman: You gain the +2 Implacable Talent.

Master: As an action, you may spend all your Advantage (minimum 3) to deal a deadly strike after a successful Opposed WS Test against your enemies that deals their (Number of Bleed Conditions) x2 in Damage that cannot be resisted by Armor or their TB.

Path of Iron

Novice: Followers of this path are considered immortal. Your fists feel as hard as iron, breaking through stone and armor with ease. Your Unarmed Attacks gain the Pummeling Weapon Quality.

Apprentice: Add an additional +1 Damage to your Unarmed Attacks. (raising the maximum bonus to SB+6)

Journeyman: Your Arms and Legs gain +2 Armor Points; moreover, you gain the +1 Resistance (Stun) Talent.

Master: Gain the Strike to Stun Talent when using your Unarmed attacks.

Path of Shadows

Novice: Your methods lie in the darkness when following the Path of Shadows, striking when unseen to end your enemies without notice. You gain the Stealthy Trait.

Apprentice: Gain an additional +10 to your WS Tests when striking an enemy from behind or at the sides (with a total of +30 without Advantage).

Journeyman: You gain Dark Vision.

Master: You cannot be Surprised before or during combat.

Path of the Beast

Novice: Like the Jade Tigers of Cathay, you wrestle your prey with the fury of an apex predator. You gain a +10 to all WS and Strength Tests for Grappling.

Apprentice: You may now force enemies into the Prone condition after a successful Opposed Grapple Test instead of an Entangled Condition.

Journeyman: You now deal twice your SB in damage when attacking enemies, you have successfully grappled or forced prone.

Master: You no longer need a Critical Success when attempting an Opposed Strength Grapple test against Size (Large) creatures.

Path of the Heavens

Novice: Your mind and body are one with the heavens. Legend says those who follow this Path are blessed with great fortune and the ability to strike with the speed of lightning. Your Unarmed attacks now have the Fast Weapon Quality.

Apprentice: You gain the Bless (Celestial Dragon Emperor) Talent.

Journeyman: You gain the +1 Riposte Talent when using Unarmed attacks.

Master: You now regain one Fortune point after you successfully defeat a Size (Medium) or larger enemy with full health in one hit.

Path of Light

Novice: Monks who follow the Path of Light are among the purest and incorruptible beings in the realms of man, with strikes that leave the damned frightened by their presence. Your Unarmed Attacks gain the Damaging Weapon Quality against servants of Chaos—Mutants, Beastmen, Demons, Cultists, Warriors of Chaos and Corrupted Beasts.

Apprentice: You can spend all your Fortune points (Minimum 1) to strike and instantly banish a single Chaos Demon with your fists back to the Warp. (GM's discretion on what can be banished)

Journeyman: You gain the +1 Resistance (Mutation) Talent.

Master: Your Unarmed Attacks gain the Impact Weapon Quality against servants of Chaos—Mutants, Beastmen, Demons, Cultists, Warriors of Chaos and Corrupted Beasts.

Path of Life

Novice: The monks that follow the Path of Life are renowned for their kindness and compassion towards the people of Cathay, aiding any incapable of combating the dangers of the world with unshakeable courage. You may spend a Fortune Point to add a +60 modifier towards your next Heal Test for one of your allies outside of combat. Wounds amount is based on your Agility Bonus + SL.

Apprentice: You may spend all your Fortune Points (minimum 1) to instantly repair any broken bones or torn muscles of one of your ally's body parts. The ally must roll an Average (+20) Endurance Test or retain the broken bones and torn muscles. This ability can only be performed within the first hour the injury has been inflicted.

Journeyman: You gain +1 Resistance (Disease and Poison).

Master: Outside of combat, you can spend 1 Fortune Point to roll an Average (+20) Perform (Meditation) Test and regain 1d10+WPB+SL in Wounds for yourself. This process takes 1d10 hours.

Path of Death

Novice: Cathay is home to many horrors that stalk the lands, including the undead. These monks are said to be among the leading experts in their annihilation. Your Unarmed Attacks gain the Damaging Weapon Quality against the Undead—Zombies, Skeletons, Ghosts, Banshees, Necromancers, Vampires and any Raised Beasts.

Apprentice: Your Unarmed attacks are now Magical.

Journeyman: You are Immune to all Psychology affects caused by any Undead.

Master: Your Unarmed Attacks gain the Impact Weapon Quality against the Undead—Zombies, Skeletons, Ghosts, Banshees, Necromancers, Vampires and any Raised Beasts.

Nippon Samurai

“The might of the island race of Nippon is considered a threat even in the Great Empire of Cathay, as it is a notable sea power.

Samurai are the warrior nobility of Nippon. Samurai lords lead bands of disciplined and utterly devoted followers. The Samurai martial code does not recognize failure and there can be no honor in defeat. The Samurai are much concerned with their personal reputation as warriors and always fight to the utmost of their ability.

In Nippon the Samurai have developed their skills to a level far above those of normal humans. Fatalism has reached such a peak in these warriors that some (up to 10% in any battle) regard it as a high honor to die in battle and become Kamikaze. These warriors are prepared to go into battle as human bombs, carrying either a cask of black powder or bandoliers loaded with separate explosive charges. Kamikaze warriors hide in other regiments, lighting the fuses on their explosive packs and rushing to meet the enemy as soon as it gets close to them. A Kamikaze not killed during a battle will slay himself, believing that his time has come and that to live on would affront Simca.

Nipponese armies know how to use black powder weapons, such as crude muzzle-loaded arquebuses, simple firelock pistols (favored by mounted Samurai, alongside bows and crossbows), cannons and very precise, 6 to 9 feet long war rockets filled with a mixture of fireworks that are designed to frighten, disorganize and distract the survivors of a hit. While no Samurai would lower himself to work so closely with the lower orders and operate fundamentally 'cowardly' weapons, the profession of bombardier is regarded with great esteem amongst the lower military orders.

Because of their geographical isolation, Nipponese armies can only employ Ogre mercenaries and allied Giants. Samurai lords are known to ride on warhorses, Temple Dogs, and Ki-rin.

Traders from Marienburg in the Old World have reached Nippon since at least 2475 IC. This has led to the establishment of a large Nipponese community in Nipponstaad, between the Paleisbuurt and the Handelaarmarkt, and next to the Cathayans of Zijdemarkt within Marienburg.”—Warhammer Wiki

The Orange Simca's Blessings:

Battle	Courage	Fortune	Hardiness	Might	Righteousness
--------	---------	---------	-----------	-------	---------------

Melee (Two-handed)—No-Dachi: Exotic, 100 GC

Enc: 3 Reach: Long Damage: SB+6 Qualities: Damaging, Fast, Hack

Nippon Samurai Advance Scheme

Starting Characteristics: Weapon Skill, Strength and Initiative

Career Rank 2 Characteristic: Toughness

Career Rank 3 Characteristic: Willpower

Career Rank 4 Characteristic: Intelligence

WS	BS	S	T	I	Ag	Dex	Int	WP	Fel
✚		✚	✚	✚			♥	☠

Elite Soldier—Silver 2 (Warrior)

Skills: Athletics, Dodge, Endurance, Heal, Intuition, Language (Battle), Melee (Basic), Ranged (Bow)

Talents: Hardy, Kenjutsu (Style), Read/Write, Strike to Injure

Trappings: Chonmage Haircut, Katana (Sword), Kimono, Mail Coat, Tantō (Dagger)

Samurai—Silver 4

Skills: Art (Calligraphy or Poetry), Cool, Melee (Polearm), Melee (Two-handed), Ranged (Blackpowder), Riding (Horse)

Talents: Combat Reflexes, Dual Wielder, Etiquette (Soldiers), Shieldsman

Trappings: Clan Symbol, Full Samurai Armor and Helm (Plate), Light Warhorse with Saddle and Tack, Warhammer or Spear, Your Honor

Hatamoto—Gold 2

Skills: Charm, Gamble, Intimidate, Leadership

Talents: Ambidextrous, Disarm, Lightning Strike, Reaction Strike

Trappings: Clan War Banner, Symbol of Rank and Status

Daimyo—Gold 7

Skills: Lore (Politics), Lore (Warfare)

Talents: Combat Master, Inspiring, Riposte, Warleader

Trappings: Finest Quality Samurai Armor and Helm (Plate), Large Unit of Samurai, No-Dachi, Province in Nippon

Kenjutsu (Style)

Max: 4

An entire martial art was created to learn how to appropriately use the samurai sword dubbed Kenjutsu. The importance of studying Kenjutsu is crucial for samurai, as their proficiency in the ways of the sword is a life or death situation. Those who don't understand the intricacies of each weapon are considered uncultivated. Think of how useless a Handgunner would be if he didn't know how to fire their gun in a war zone. The art of sword combat, as with all martial arts, has both a physical and spiritual level.

Each samurai clan is unique in its swordsmanship, with different schools dedicated to different methods and styles of fighting. Samurai born into these clans spend most of their lives slaving away at mastering these techniques, or "Ways", with those surviving long enough becoming terrifying sword masters capable of slaying dozens of enemies each battle.

Choose one of the Ways listed, but only one. Anyone who picks this talent pays 100 XP with an additional XP cost of 100 per Talent advance--100XP>200XP>300XP>400XP. You may only purchase this Talent once per career level, with a maximum of four. You cannot change your Way or select an additional Way. All Talents provided by the Way chosen cannot be upgraded and must be learned outside the Samurai's career to be advanced.

Way of the Tortoise

Novice: You reduce the encumbrance of all armor pieces worn by 2 instead of 1.

Apprentice: If struck with a Critical Hit, you now have a permanent -10 on the Critical Wounds Table.

Journeyman: You gain +1 Natural Armor on all body parts.

Master: You gain the Die Hard and Painless Traits.

Way of the Crane

Novice: You may issue a duel against an opponent. See Virtue of Confidence for rules. (page. 3)

Apprentice: You are Immune to Fear or Intimidation affects caused by your opponent when dueling.

Journeyman: Gain +10 to your WS when dueling an opponent when you're not using a shield.

Master: In a duel, gain two Advantage on a successful Opposed WS Test instead of one.

Way of the Dragon

Novice: When Dual Wielding, you no longer take the -10 WS penalty to defending after attacking with both weapons.

Apprentice: When you Critically Hit an enemy, raise their roll on the Critical Woundsy table by +10 if striking with both weapons.

Journeyman: You gain+1 SL when defending with both weapons.

Master: You no longer need to hit with both weapons to gain an Advantage, with a potential gain of +2 Advantage if both strikes hit.

Way of the Tiger

Novice: You gain +1 Damage when using Two-handed weapons.

Apprentice: All Two-handed weapons gain the Shield 1 Weapon Quality.

Journeyman: When using a Two-handed weapon, all rolls landing on tens cause a Critical Hit—10, 20, 30, 40, etc.

Master: You now deal two Critical Wounds on a Critical Hit against an enemy when using a Two-handed weapon.

Way of the Naga

Novice: You gain the Cunning Trait during an encounter.

Apprentice: On a Sixth Sense Test, you can add your Intelligence Bonus in additional +SL towards the result.

Journeyman: You gain the Clever Trait during an encounter.

Master: As an Action, you may spend all your Advantage (Minimum 1) to add your Intelligence Bonus as extra damage for your next melee or ranged attack.

Way of the Snake

Novice: Your melee weapons now count as one Range longer than they normally are.

Apprentice: You gain +1 Resistance (Poison and Disease).

Journeyman: Whenever you coat your blades in poison, you add your Intelligence Bonus as additional damage to each successful melee attack.

Master: After striking an enemy with a Critical Hit, for each poison Condition the enemy has, increase the roll amount on the Critical Wounds table by +5.

Way of the Stag

Novice: When engaged in combat you gain the Fast Trait.

Apprentice: You gain the Arboreal Trait.

Journeyman: You are Immune to Fatigue caused by traveling, Poison and Stun.

Master: If you are knocked Prone at 0 Wounds, enemies no longer gain a +20 to their WS Tests against you and instead you gain the +20 to your WS Tests against them.

Way of the Nio

Novice: You deal +1 Damage against all Chaos Corrupted beings and Daemons.

Apprentice: You gain the Bless (Orange Simca) Talent and use the Language (Battle) skill in place of the Pray skill.

Journeyman: You may spend 1 Resolve to give yourself all Blessings (Orange Simca) for 1 Round.

Master: Your Melee Attacks gain the Impact Weapon Quality against servants of Chaos—Mutants, Beastmen, Demons, Cultists, Warriors of Chaos and Corrupted Beasts.

Lightning Strike

Max: Agility Bonus

Test: Any Melee WS Test involving this Talent

Your blade is as swift as lightning! You strike before your opponent even has time to react. As an action, you may spend all your Advantage (Minimum 3) to roll a single Unopposed Melee test against your enemy. This action sacrifices your Free Action and remaining Movement, if any, for the remainder of the turn. Each additional Advantage spent adds an additional +1 SL to the result if you successfully land a hit. You cannot Deathblow if you successfully kill a target with this Talent.

Vimto Monks

“Like many Orientals, Nipponese worship a common god called the Orange Simca, whose monks wear orange robes and spend most of their time in contemplation. Vimto is the martial version of Simcism. Nippon abounds with diverse orders of monks, either martial or clerical. The Orders select their members at a very early age and the chosen ones devote their entire lives to philosophy, theology and the martial arts. A lifetime of grueling study hones their bodies and minds to a very fine edge.

Even these warriors are outclassed by the Vimto monks. They cannot wear Samurai armor or carry shields, but their agility is such that they can dodge and parry blows with their limbs alone.”—Warhammer Wiki

Vimto are quite varied in their armament. The naginata is the weapon most often associated with them, though many warrior monks are known to be proficient with everything from bow and arrow to tantō and wakizashi (dagger and short sword). Many fought on horseback.

Vimto monks, like most other warrior monks of related sects, wear a series of orange kimono-like robes in layers, one over the other, usually white underneath, and tan or saffron yellow on top. Warrior monks would often fold and tie the white head cowl to cover more of their head.

Finally, many warrior monks wear some form of light samurai armor, usually reinforced leather. The Vimto employ a variety of weapons. The belt of the kimono is often supplemented with a heavier sash, so a sword could be slung from it. The long tachi was probably the most common sword, though many monks may carry tantō as well. Many monks are also accomplished archers. The most traditional weapon of the monk, however, was the naginata.

Their pious nature is said to grant them valuable gifts from the Orange Simca, Goddess of the Rising Sun, herself, granting them an unparalleled reputation as the living embodiment of the gods. Seen as avatars of war, Daimyo often pay large sums of money to pay them off as mercenaries either to aid them in their campaigns of war, or more commonly to avoid a conflict with them altogether. Ogres find the Vimto monks to be rather difficult competitors in the mercenary market and have launched many failed and bloody attempts to “outbid” their competition. Many ogre tribes in Nippon have had their contracts taken by the Vimto due to a sudden lack of “communication” between their employers and the ogres they initially planned to employ.

The Orange Simca’s Blessings: Vimto Monks gain a +10 to Pray Tests during the first round of combat if using a Naginata.

Battle	Courage	Fortune	Hardiness	Might	Righteousness
--------	---------	---------	-----------	-------	---------------

Melee (Two-handed)—Nagamaki: Exotic, 4 GC

Enc: 2 Reach: Very Long Damage: SB+5 Qualities: Damaging, Fast

See first picture to the right for a visual representation

Melee (Polearm)—Naginata: Exotic, 5 GC

Enc: 3 Reach: Very Long Damage: SB+5 Qualities: Defensive, Hack

Armored Monk Robes--Exotic, 5 GC Per Armor Piece: Covers Arms, Legs and Body only. Enc. 1 Each Armor Piece

Armor Qualities: Durable, Flexible.

Vimto Monks Advance Scheme

Starting Characteristics: Weapon Skill, Strength and Fellowship

Career Rank 2 Characteristic: Agility

Career Rank 3 Characteristic: Toughness

Career Rank 4 Characteristic: Willpower

WS	BS	S	T	I	Ag	Dex	Int	WP	Fel
✚		✚	☠		✚			☠	✚

Novice Monk—Brass 3 (Warrior)

Skills: Athletics, Cool, Dodge, Language (Battle), Lore (Orange Simca), Melee (Polearm), Pray, Trade (Shrine Building)

Talents: Bless (Orange Simca), Disarm, Hatred (Skaven), Read/Write

Trappings: Armored Monk Robes (Mail Coat), Quarterstaff, Portable Simca Shrine, Tantō (Dagger), White Cowl

Vimto Monk—Silver 1

Skills: Consume Alcohol, Entertain (Speeches), Gossip, Melee (Basic), Outdoor Survival, Ranged (Bow)

Talents: Etiquette (Cultists), In-fighter, Invoke (Orange Simca), Step Aside

Trappings: Breastplate, Long Bow with 10 Arrows, Naginata, Prayer Beads

Vimto Blade Master—Silver 3

Skills: Endurance, Intuition, Melee (Two-handed), Perception

Talents: Holy Hatred, Holy Visions, Pure Soul, Sprinter

Trappings: Apprentice Monks, Nagamaki (Two-handed), Training Temple

Champion of the Orange Simca—Silver 5

Skills: Art (Holy Scriptures), Lore (Warfare)

Talents: Careful Strike, Impassioned Zeal, Public Speaking, Strike Mighty Blow

Trappings: Highest Quality Monk Robes, Religious Symbol

Miracles of the Orange Simca

The Orange Simca is the Goddess of the Rising Sun, Honor and War. Her followers consist primarily of the warrior clans that dominate Nippon (although many commoners worship her for protection and strength), with the warrior monks being the most fanatical of her worshippers. She is often paid tribute in silver, blooming flowers, snake bones and silks. It is said her worshippers feel a greater sense pride and vigor when basking in the sun but are somewhat melancholy and composed during the night. The monks are said to be so blessed or inspired by her holy light that they don't need to sleep, defending the innocent as their goddess rests in the heavens until the next morning.

Strictures:

- Do not watch the sun as it sets but be prepared to see as it rises. Guard the innocent as she sleeps.
- Always ask three times for permission before accepting any gifts from the innocent, as it is a warrior's duty to protect the helpless, not to take from them.
- Always offer aid to warriors against Skaven who ask for it, regardless of political affiliation or race.
- Offer sacrifices on the first morning of every month, as tribute for a new month of light.

Gift of the Rising Sun

Range: You

Target: Area of Effect

Duration: Instant

You call on the Orange Simca to scour the battlefield of dishonorable foes, and a blinding flash of golden light bursts forth. All non-Simcans looking in your direction receive 1 Blinded Condition. For every +2 SL, they receive +1 Blinded Conditions.

Serpent's Eye

Range: Fellowship yards

Target: You

Duration: Fellowship Bonus Rounds

You call on Simca to send a Divine Servant to grant you knowledge of your enemies. A spectral serpent manifests, slithering across the ground. The serpent looks like and has the capabilities of a normal snake, but cannot physically affect the world, or be harmed in any way. While the Miracle is in effect, you can see through the serpent's eyes and control its movement, surveying the battlefield and spying upon your enemies. Your Vision is acute, but you do not have access to any of your own sense-enhancing Talents such as Night Vision. While looking through the serpent's eyes, you cannot see through your own eyes, leaving you potentially vulnerable.

Bushido's Call

Range: Fellowship yards

Target: Strength Bonus allies

Duration: Fellowship Bonus Rounds

Your prayers of honor instill your allies with an unbreakable courage against their foes. All allies affected receive the +1 Drilled and Fearless Talents towards any enemies engaging them in combat.

Banzai Charge

Range: Fellowship yards

Target: Strength Bonus allies

Duration: Fellowship Bonus Rounds

Your prayer ignites the fires of war within your comrades. Affected targets gain the +1 Berserk Charge Talent. For Every +2 SL, you may increase Berserk Charge by an additional +1.

Shield of the Sun

Range: Fellowship yards

Target: Strength Bonus allies

Duration: Fellowship Bonus Rounds

Your stalwart prayers channel the glow of the Orange Simca to shield your allies in glittering, gossamer strands of light, warding enemy blows. All those affected gain +1 AP on all locations.

Red Sun's Smite

Range: You

Target: You

Duration: Fellowship Bonus Rounds

If wielding a Naginata, it gains the Impact Quality, and counts as Magical.

Beacon of Sacred Might

Range: You

Target: Area of Effect

Duration: Fellowship Bonus Rounds

As you bellow prayers in Simca's name, you become infused with the holy fires of the Rising Sun. All allies with Line of Sight to you instantaneously remove all Broken Conditions, and gain the Fearless Talent while the Miracle is in effect and they remain in your Line of Sight. Any servants of Chaos or Skaven within Line of Sight to you are subject to Fear 1.

Sunfire

Range: You

Target: Area of Effect

Duration: Instant

You call the power of the Orange Simca to smite servants of the dark gods, children of the Horned One and those tempted by black magics. The holy fire of the Rising Sun explodes from your body blasting outwards for Fellowship Bonus yards. All targets within range take 1d10 Wounds ignoring Toughness Bonus and APs. Targets with the Skaven, Undead and Daemon Creature Traits also gain the Ablaze Condition. For every +2 SL, you may increase the area of effect by +Fellowship Bonus yards, or cause an extra +2 Damage to any Skaven, Undead, or servants of the Ruinous Powers affected.

Ninja

“Ninja Assassins are indispensable members of a Samurai lord’s retinue, dark agents of death who prey upon the unwary and slay them without mercy. They remain disguised within regiments of ordinary troops until it is time for them to spring. Once a regiment is engaged in hand-to-hand combat, the assassin throws off his disguise, leaps out of the regiment, and may attack any important figures in the enemy regiment. They can fight unarmed, or with a wide variety of weapons, such as the kusarigama (a sickle on a length of cord or light chain that can be thrown or used as a hand weapon), shuriken or throwing stars, and torinoko grenades (which can be loaded with explosives, blinding flash powder, or confusing firecrackers).”—Warhammer Wiki

The ninja are stealth soldiers and mercenaries hired mostly by daimyos. Their primary roles are those of espionage and sabotage, although many assassinations are also attributed to ninja. Although they’re considered the anti-samurai and are disdained by those belonging to the samurai class, they are necessary for warfare and are even employed by the samurai themselves to carry out operations that are forbidden by the Bushido.

Despite their roots in Nippon, Ninja have spread widely across the far East, occupying Cathay in equally great numbers and establishing secret conclaves as far as Marienburg.

In hushed whispers it is rumored these ninjas from Nippon and Cathay are the ones that inspired the culmination of the Skaven Clan Eshin. No one is sure how they accomplished such a feat, but this greatly angered the numerous Ninja clans in the Far East and has led to an intense and never-ending shadow war between the two races with their respective talents.

Besides organized bands of ninjas, there are many freelance ninjas who offered their services to the highest bidder in the unsettled times across Nippon’s history. Crafty leaders in Marienburg sometimes employ ninjas from the Golden Lotus, a front run by master ninja Toko, to infiltrate and assassinate rivals, nobles and other threats to their businesses and their country as whole. In order to make sure ninjas within a group are who they should be passwords are used at random. A ninja is supposed to stand whenever they hear the password, and anyone left seated is thus exposed.

The tactics of subterfuge, ambush and trickery, as well as their use of projectile weapons, means that ninjas do not enjoy the high reputation that samurai warriors, perhaps not entirely fairly, acquire for being chivalrous and courageous.

Ranged (Explosives)—Torinoko Grenades: Exotic, 4 GC

Enc: 0 Reach: SB Damage: Special Qualities: Blast 5, Dangerous

Distraction: Made up of firecrackers and noise makers, these grenades are used to lure and distract enemies.

Smoke: Used to blind and surprise unaware foes, anyone caught in the radius of this grenade is Surprised and must roll a Challenging (+0) Initiative Test or gain 1 Blind Condition.

Stun: Used to incapacitate foes, anyone caught in the radius of this grenade must roll a Challenging (+0) Endurance Test or gain 1 Stun condition per -SL on their roll.

Poison: Used to weaken and kill targets, anyone caught in the radius of this grenade must roll a Challenging (+0) Endurance Test or gain 1 Poison condition plus 1 per -SL on their roll.

Ninja Advance Scheme

Starting Characteristics: Weapon Skill, Ballistic Skill and Agility

Career Rank 2 Characteristic: Dexterity

Career Rank 3 Characteristic: Initiative

Career Rank 4 Characteristic: Fellowship

WS	BS	S	T	I	Ag	Dex	Int	WP	Fel
✚	✚			☠	✚	✚			☠

Genin (Cathayan or Nipponese)— Silver 1 (Rogue)

Skills: Athletics, Dodge, Endurance, Melee (Basic), Ranged (Thrown), Secret Signs (Ninja), Stealth (Everything)

Talents: Night Vision, Read/Write, Rover, Tunnel Rat

Trappings: Assassination Contract, Katana (Hand Weapon), Ninja Robes and Mask, Tantō (Dagger), 1d10 Kunai (Throwing Knives)

Chunin— Silver 2

Skills: Bribery, Charm, Intuition, Perception, Ranged (Explosives), Trade (Explosives)

Talents: Combat Reflexes, Scale Sheer Surface, Shadow, Strike to Injure

Trappings: Bomb Crafting Recipes, Disguise Kit, Hidden Blade (Dagger), Ninja Hideout (Any), 3 Vials of Poison

Jonin— Silver 5

Skills: Climb, Cool, Ranged (Bow), Sleight of Hand

Talents: Careful Strike, Fleet Footed, Furious Assault, Strike Mighty Blow

Trappings: Apprentice Ninja, High-end Contract Assassination, Nippon Longbow with Arrows, 3 Torinoko Grenades

Master Jonin— Gold 2

Skills: Entertain (Acting), Gossip

Talents: Beneath Notice, Cat-tongued, Mimic, Secret Identity

Trappings: Business Front and HQ, Elite Ninja Bodyguards, Ninja Clan, Quality Clothing, 500 GC

Estalian Almogavar

The Estalian common folk are accustomed to war. Ever since the evil Caliph Jaffar invaded their land, Estalian shepherds found few options for survival within the harsh mountains bordering Brettonia and Tilea. The easiest one became that which their forefathers had been forced to by the previous kings and nobles: That of raiding and pillaging. And soon after, there was not a single Estalian shepherd that had not grown up sullyng his blade once.

Estalian Almogavars (a term coined by the Arabyans, meaning “Rioters”) became an essential part of the reconquering efforts by the Estalian kingdoms, often employing these warbands as mobile light infantry to supplement their own rigid formations. These men came from all walks of life and joined a “Compañía”, lead at first by charismatic or veteran individuals with tactical knowledge. These took part in battle by harassing the enemy position with well-placed javelin throws and forcing encounters with enemy infantry on uneven terrain. Outside of battle, their pillaging expertise put the tales of Tilean raiders to shame, destroying the ability for the Caliph to retain his stranglehold on the Peninsula.

After these reconquering efforts began their decline, these men became mercenaries in a similar vein to those found in Tilean society, still serving the many remaining baronies, duchies and kingdoms within Estalia and fighting their battles. Their composition became much more professional, the “Compañías” forming their own sense of identity and unity amongst themselves and in-between. The leaders of these groups, now known as “Adalid”, became lower noblemen within Estalian society, capable of fielding a military power that, while not threatening to major stability, could cause major damage.

These mercenaries found themselves travelling far beyond the reaches of Estalia and Tilea, wandering over the northernmost icy forests of Kislev, the quibbles and disputes of the Border Princes, the silky sands of Araby and the fearsome jungles of the New World. While bound to their lieges and their kingdom first, these “Compañías” value the survival of their companionship second... and the glint of gold and coin third. And, even though they may seem less illustrious and meritorious than their Tilean counterparts, one would do well in remembering an old Estalian proverb: “Más has bien de reirte de nos, burlarte de nos y hartarte de nos... pero has bien de no engañar a nos, o habrá de nos de quemar a ceniza la fortuna de vos” (You’d do well in laughing at us, mocking us and being fed up with us... but you’d do well in not cheating us, or we will burn your fortunes to ash).

Estalian Almogavar Advance Scheme

Starting Characteristics: Weapon Skill, Toughness and Agility

Career Rank 2 Characteristic: Ballistic Skill

Career Rank 3 Characteristic: Strength

Career Rank 4 Characteristic: Fellowship

WS	BS	S	T	I	Ag	Dex	Int	WP	Fel
✚	✚	☠	✚		✚				☠

Joven—Copper 3 (Warrior)

Skills: Charm, Haggle, Intuition, Lore (Myrmidia), Melee (Basic), Melee (Polearm), Outdoor Survival, Perception

Talents: Break and Enter, Combat Aware, Distract, Enclosed Fighter

Trappings: Bedroll, Spear, Dagger, Leather Jerkin, Tinderbox, Unique Region Trapping (page. 27)

Almogavar—Copper 5

Skills: Endurance, Intimidate, Pray, Ranged (Blackpowder), Ranged (Throwing), Track

Talents: Call to Myrmidia, Marksman, Relentless, Seasoned Traveller

Trappings: Brand of Compañía, Small Shield, Mail Coat and Helm, 2 Javelins

Jinete—Silver 3

Skills: Animal Care, Climb, Ride (Horse), Swim

Talents: Accurate Shot, Reversal, Roughrider, Strong Back

Trappings: Light War Horse with Saddle and Tack

Almocaden—Gold 3

Skills: Language (Battle), Leadership

Talents: Careful Strike, ¡¡Despierta, Fierro!!, Iron Will, Strike to Injure

Trappings: Plumed Great Helm, Officer’s Insignia, Spoils of War (3d100 GC), Unit of Almogavar

Fools and Scoundrels (Psychology): The reconquering efforts in Estalia were marked by the combined efforts of humanity to fend off the Caliph's host, with Estalia's populace grateful to their neighbors for their help... save for one. The Tilean Dogs of War pilfered and ravaged the countryside in such a way that the two nations are forever distrustful of the other, plunging knives and insults alike to further cement that hatred. As such, Estalian Almogavars come predisposed with the Prejudice (Tileans) Psychology, with Tileans holding the Estalians in the same light. If falsely recognized as Tilean, an Estalian individual must take this as the gravest of insults.

Loose Confederations: While not unified in belonging like the Imperials or Bretonnians, Estalian geography and history has molded the many tribes of old into a congealed mash of cultures and traditions borne from the necessities of war. Despite being part of separate powers vying for control, several regions form the following confederations:

Inner Sea Coalition (Aradón, Catilinia and Vanlen): Based on the Eastern Regions, these peoples are often well connected with Bretonnian and Tilean merchants and find themselves better communicated as a result. It is also implied that the original Almogavars came from their shepherd population. Each Almogavar leaving their ancestral home goes with a necklace holding Myrmidia's Sweat, so that it may protect them in their travels. (Myrmidian Necklace)

High Castles Confederation (Castill, Laon, Gaellica): At the forefront of the reconquering effort, these kingdoms hold honor and knighthood at greater esteem than the rest, trying to imitate the Bretonnian model with lackluster results. Almogavar's from this area leave their homes taking the family buckler, passed down from father to youth in wars to come. (Myrmidian Shield)

The Lost Tribes (Vasconia and Navarr): These peoples existed even before Sigmar unified the Empire and have persisted in their ways through bloodshed and peril. They hold their land with unbridled ferocity and the rest of Estalia knows of their hardened nature. The Almogavars leave these enclosed societies wearing the helmets of those unfortunate raiders who thought a good idea to trespass their mountains. (Raider Open Helm)

The Southern Regions (Andal, Murc and Portul): The most recently conquered peoples, they combine the knowledge of Araby and entrepreneur spirit of the first colonizers from the kingdoms up North, creating as a result some of the greatest academies and places of learning in the Peninsula and, through that, some of the greatest minds. Almogavars hailing from these areas appear to the rest of their kin as bachelors, holding with them a Map for the region they're located in and one of the many copies of the Bellona Myrmidia. (Quality Map and Myrmidian Scripture)

Call to Myrmidia

Max: Fellowship Bonus

Test: Pray involving this Talent

All Estalians and most Tileans have some sort of connection with the Goddess, found after exemplary courage and honor in battle; however, only her most zealous of followers outside of the priests and war priests of Myrmidia can tap into her divine power. A devout follower of Myrmidia may Invoke the Spear of Myrmidia Miracle after a successful Challenging (+0) Pray Test during combat despite not having the Invoke (Myrmidia) Talent. If the Invoke (Myrmidia) Talent is purchased, it automatically replaces Call to Myrmidia and adds Spear of Myrmidia to the list of known Miracles.

¡¡Despierta, Fierro!!

Max: Fellowship Bonus

Test: Language (Battle) Test related to this Talent

The Almogavar Battlecry, cemented during the Battle of Magritta when an Almogavar Compañía held the left flank alone against insurmountable odds. Soldiers new and old fall back to this chant to renew their vigour, perhaps not ensuring victory, but providing a second wind. Once per Encounter, as a Free Action, the Almogavar can attempt a Challenging (+0) Language (Battle) Test during combat to earn Advantage per +SL up to their Initiative Bonus.

Estalian Inquisidor

Estalia is a region dominated by belief. It is well known that above the will of kings and their laws, Myrmidia's teachings hold sway for all that wish to live within the many Kingdoms, Baronies and Dukedoms. And to uphold these teachings, the Church of Myrmidia early on formed an organization capable of enforcing such power. La Inquisición was a body of devotees holding great sway in Estalia, ensuring the teachings of Myrmidia would come through all strata of society where possible.

It gained significant power during the reconquering efforts, with Inquisitors joining the armed hosts of Estalia against the invading forces and acting by way of political officers. After the reconquering efforts started to refocus, so did the way the Inquisición sought to hold sway over society. The Inquisition Schools of Magritta were born out of this necessity, to form specialized members in order to tackle increasingly complicated issues both in Estalian interior and exterior politics.

From the fighting in the borders to the courtrooms; dealing with the influence of Chaos and diplomacy; these men became the middlemen for almost all aspects of Estalian society. It is stated that at one point, royally appointed judges got ousted by members of the Inquisition for giving out a contrarian verdict.

The most famous of these Inquisidores goes by Laurenzo Taurquema, who some say controls the kings of Estalia like they're puppets in his grand schemes. And who can say? While not completely closed to the world, the workings of Estalian laws and doctrine are held close like a secret better left buried. And one can only imagine how these individuals, trained since birth and being taught all the ways the men can be broken, would react to a world broken in faith. As Taurquema put it:

"There are shadows in every corner, faces hiding truths that some would rather remain unburied. We have a duty to truth, to expose it, ugly as it may be, to render it into submission. Lies come in many a form, from the dejected corruption of an official to the taint of the dreaded mutation. And by Myrmidia's Grace and Wisdom, all who seek to sully her teachings will face our judgment. We are her Arms, her Eyes and her Ears. We are the true protectors against lack of belief."

Inquisidor School Starting Talents:

San Ioan: Ambidextrous, Combat Aware, Strong-minded

San Mattheus: Lip Reading, Rover, Shadow

Santa Esther: Dealmaker, Gregarious, Schemer

Inquisidor School Starting Skills:

San Ioan: Melee (Brawling), Language (Battle)

San Mattheus: Stealth (Rural), Track

Santa Esther: Gossip, Haggle

Estalian Inquisidor Advance Scheme:

Starting Characteristics: Weapon Skill, Toughness and Willpower

Career Rank 2 Characteristic: Ballistic Skill

Career Rank 3 Characteristic: Fellowship

Career Rank 4 Characteristic: Intelligence

WS	BS	S	T	I	Ag	Dex	Int	WP	Fel
✚	✚		✚				☛	✚	☛

Initiate—Silver 1 (Ranger)

Skills: Intimidate, Intuition, Lore (Myrmidia), Lore (Torture), Melee (Fencing), Perception, (Starting Skills based on Inquisitor School)

Talents: Read/Write, (Starting Talents based on Inquisitor School)

Trappings: Hand Weapon, Instruments of Torture, Bellona Myrmidia book.

Juramentado —Silver 3

Skills: Dodge, Lore (Witches), Ranged (Black Powder), Ride (Horse), Secret Signs (Cultists), Heal

Talents: Dual Wielder, Marksman, Seasoned Traveller, Warrior Born

Trappings: Feathered Hat, Leather Jack, Pair of Ornate Pistols, Riding Horse with Saddle and Tack, Rope, Silvered Sword or Rapier

Inquisidor—Silver 5

Skills: Endurance, Leadership, Lore (Law), Lore (Local)

Talents: Fearless (Witches), Menacing, Relentless, Riposte

Trappings: Subordinate Juramentados, Quality Clothing, Quality Gun (Any), 10 Silver Bullets with Powder

Evocador—Gold 1

Skills: Lore (Chaos), Lore (Politics)

Talents: Frightening, Iron Will, Magical Sense, Pure Soul

Trappings: Best Quality Courtly Garb, Subordinate Inquisidores, Seal of Taurquema

Tilean Condottieri

Condottieri are leaders of bands of mercenaries engaged to fight in numerous wars among the Tilean states. The name was derived from the condotta, or “contract,” by which the condottieri put themselves in the service of a city or of a lord. The first mercenary armies in Tilea (often called Dogs of War) are made up of foreigners. The earliest was composed of Estalians who had fought in the wars of the south. In the mid-14th century IC mercenary companies composed mainly of Reiklanders, Middenlanders and Sylvanians, terrorized the country, devastating Luccini, Trantio, and Pavona prompting an even higher demand for personal mercenary protection.

The Bretonnian Yeoman, John Hawk, one of the most famous of the non-Tilean condottieri, came to Tilea in the 1460s IC during a lull after the Great Crusade and for the next 30 years led his Red Company in the confused internal wars of northern Tilea, shocking and inspiring all the nearby city states with their skill in battle. Due to the divisive political tensions, Tilean states began to raise more advanced mercenary armies, and soon condottieri were conquering principalities for themselves. The organization of the companies was perfected in the early 16th century IC by Muzioni Dollo da Fortza, in the service of Verezzo, and his rival Braccio da Monda, in the service of Remas. Muzioni’s son, Francesco da Fortza, who won control of Miragliano in 1550 IC, was one of the most successful of all the condottieri.

The soldiers who fight under the condottieri are almost entirely heavy-armored cavalry and are noted for their rapacious and disorderly behavior outside of conflict but feared for their unflinching sense of discipline on the frontlines. With no goal beyond personal gain, the armies of the condottieri often change sides, and their battles can often result in high amounts of bloodshed against their former “allies”, so long as the pay to betray their employers was good enough to cover any lost revenue.

While for the most part, mercenaries are used in wars between city states, petty tyrants are known to make use of mercenaries against their own people, and even their own families. The truly ruthless leaders of the Border Princes and Estalian states rule with an iron fist and surround themselves with foreign mercenaries, trusting that foreigners would have no sympathy for common folk in unfamiliar countries and be willing to carry out their most barbarous orders.

Despite this, most modern condottieri and their companies are led and run by Tileans with their nationalities tied to the regions or city states they were born in. It is not uncommon for fledgling mercenary leaders to start their roots in their home states, but as their career progresses, they tend to spread their fortune to new lands within Estalia, the Border Princes and especially the Empire.

Condottieri’s start with the Vendetta Psychology and gain +1 SL on all Tests when fighting against someone you have a rivalry with, either in combat or social disputes.

Tilean Condottieri Advance Scheme

Starting Characteristics: Weapon Skill, Ballistic Skill and Fellowship

Career Rank 2 Characteristic: Strength

Career Rank 3 Characteristic: Intelligence

Career Rank 4 Characteristic: Toughness

WS	BS	S	T	I	Ag	Dex	Int	WP	Fel
✚	✚	✚	✚				☠		✚

Mercenario—Silver 1 (Warrior)

Skills: Animal Care, Bribery, Endurance, Haggle, Language (Battle), Melee (Basic), Melee (Cavalry), Ride (Horse)

Talents: Deal Maker, Drilled, Roughrider, Seasoned Traveler

Trappings: Chain Shirt, Contract, 1d10 GC

Condottieri—Silver 5

Skills: Charm, Cool, Gossip, Language (Any), Melee (Polearm or Two-handed), Ranged (Crossbow)

Talents: Etiquette (Mercenaries), Furious Assault, Marksman, Rapid Reload

Trappings: Breastplate and Plumed Helm, Heavy Crossbow, Destrier with Saddle and Tack, Quality Uniform, 50 GC

Comandante—Gold 1

Skills: Intimidate, Intuition, Leadership, Lore (Politics)

Talents: Commanding Presence, Hardy, Shieldsman, Warleader

Trappings: Barding, Tower Shield, Quality Weapon (Any), 2d100 GC

Generale—Gold 3

Skills: Lore (Any), Navigation

Talents: Reaction Strike, Savant (Politics), Strike Mighty Blow Wealthy

Trappings: Finest Quality Plate Armor and Uniform, Unit of Mercenaries and a Small Unit of Condottieri, 500 GC

Albionese Highlander

“So, it came to be that Albion remained a mysterious island. Many tales tell of raiding ships that have vanished into the mists never to be seen again. Occasionally the gossip in a tavern will turn to the tale of a friend of a friend who was shipwrecked on the isle and returned to tell stories of creatures that were half horse, half man or of terrible one-eyed beasts that stalked the mists. Some even claimed to return with riches beyond a man’s wildest dreams.

No truth to these stories has ever been proven, and the rumors of Albion remain little more than fantastic tales told by drunks to any who would listen. But then a new legend spread across the land. Sailors talked of an island which had suddenly appeared to the far north. Huge white cliffs loomed out from the sea, but the sailors had also spied beaches where a small boat may possibly make a landing. It would seem that the mists had parted, and the land lay open to explore. Every race across the world gathered its armies to seek the treasures of Albion and claim the island as their own.”—Warhammer Wiki Albionese Highlanders are the fittest and toughest of the barbarians of Albion. They wield stone-age weaponry, forsaking modern convention of armor and firearms due to their people’s lack of technological advancement.

These warriors are amongst the bravest of their kind, as they charge into battle against large beasts, mutants and demons wearing nothing but the skin on their back and War Paint enchanted by the druids of Albion said to protect even the deadliest of blows.

Warpaint (Max: 3):

Albionese forsake the use of modern armor and weaponry, charging into battle, wearing nothing more than war paint, simple tribal garbs and bone charms. However, ancient customs and beliefs give them their own means of protection. With War Paint, the Albionese gain +1 armor on all body parts for the amount equal to the number of times purchased. Vulnerable to AP damage.

Warpaint is a precious resource in Albion. It may only be repaired if the PC consults a druid, hedge witch or witch to enchant blue paint made from the berries of the land.

Highlander Advance Scheme

Starting Characteristics: Weapon Skill, Strength and Willpower

Career Rank 2 Characteristic: Toughness

Career Rank 3 Characteristic: Agility

Career Rank 4 Characteristic: Initiative

WS	BS	S	T	I	Ag	Dex	Int	WP	Fel
✚		✚	✚	✚	✚			✚

Barbarian—Brass 0 (Peasant)

Skills: Consume Alcohol, Cool, Dodge, Endurance, Gamble, Heal, Melee (Two-handed), Ranged (Thrown)

Talents: Frenzy, Sturdy, Strong Back, Tenacious

Trappings: Bone Charms, Stone Axe (Hand Weapon)

Highlander— Brass 0

Skills: Animal Care, Athletics, Lore (Monsters), Melee (Polearm), Outdoor Survival, Secret Signs (Hunters)

Talents: Relentless, Resolute, Robust, War Paint

Trappings: Bone Necklace, Great Weapon

Beast Slayer— Brass 0

Skills: Entertain (Tribal Dance), Perception, Ranged (Bow), Stealth (Rural)

Talents: Fearless (Monsters), Field Dressing, Rover, Slayer

Trappings: Animal Hide Coat, Bone Headdress, Druid Blessed Great Weapon

Savage War Master--Brass 0

Skills: Intimidate, Intuition

Talents: Combat Master, Furious Assault, Iron Jaw, Iron Will

Trappings: Druidic Magic Item

Knightly Orders of the Empire

“The Knightly Orders of the Empire are a heroic brotherhood of armored warriors who ride into battle atop mighty barded warhorses and sometimes other, more exotic creatures into battle. Knights are magnificent figures, clad in gleaming Full Plate Armor crafted by Dwarfen smiths, armed with weaponry of the finest quality. To become a Knight is also to become one of the most elite warriors the Empire has to offer.

Because the cost of individual knightly training is prohibitively expensive, many sons of the Imperial nobility choose to join one of the many brotherhoods located throughout the Empire to progress through society, and as such, the Knightly Orders come in many different shape and sizes. Some of these Orders, like the Knights Griffon, only recruit from the local nobility, while others become templars of a particular Imperial deity, such as the zealous Knights of Sigmar's Blood or the Knights of the White Wolf. Some are well known throughout the Empire, while others are quite small, relatively unknown sects valiantly doing their part to make the Empire a safer place for Men to live.

Although the common people might find little distinction between the many Knight Orders of the Empire, upon closer observation, one will realize that there are two distinct types of Knightly Orders within the Empire itself. These types are divided between the common Secular Orders (An Order of Knights with no specific allegiance to a Ruler or Religion), and a Templar Order (An Order founded for the purpose of servitude to a particular god).”—Warhammer Wiki

These bonuses are granted to those who select the Knight Career in the WFRP 4E Core Book (pg. 111) and dedicate themselves to a specific order of knights. The bonuses increase as the Knight PC progresses in their career, starting from Squire to Knight of the Inner Circle. These bonuses do not require a Talent purchase and passively increase as the PC progresses through the ranks of their order. Please consult the GM before making any homebrew modifications towards your character. Your character must originate from the Empire to qualify for these Orders. Weapon Skill bonuses apply to all weapons listed, not just one. Weapon Skill bonuses do not stack with multiple weapons that grant the same bonus within the same order: Hammer + Shield ≠ +20 WS.

All Lore Skills granted by their Orders gain a free +1 Advancement. If you leave your Order under any conditions, such as being excommunicated or leaving of your own will, you lose the WS Bonuses and the final abilities you unlock at First Knight.

Order of the Blazing Sun

Squire: You gain the Lore (Myrmidia) Skill.

Knight: You gain a +10 to your WS Tests when using Lances or Spears.

First Knight: You gain the Hatred (Any) Talent.

Knight of the Inner Circle: Any Spears you wield automatically gain the Spear of Myrmidia Miracle at the start of an encounter.

Heraldry: Black and Gold, The Sun Emblem.

Knights of the White Wolf

Squire: You gain the Lore (Ulric) Skill.

Knight: You gain a +10 to your WS Tests when using any One and Two-handed Hammers or Axes.

First Knight: You gain the Hatred (Beastmen) and Hatred (Greenskins) Talent.

Knight of the Inner Circle: Any Axes you wield automatically gain the Winter's Bite Miracle at the start of an encounter.

Heraldry: White and Gold, Fur-Pelts and Wolf Sigils.

Order of the Black Bear

Squire: You gain the Lore (Monsters) Skill.

Knight: You gain a +10 to your WS Tests when using any Polearms.

First Knight: You gain the Hatred (Monsters) Talent.

Knight of the Inner Circle: You gain the +1 Slayer Talent and the Big Trait.

Heraldry: Black and Red, Bear Paw Sigil.

Knights Griffon

Squire: You gain the Lore (Sigmar) Skill.

Knight: You gain a +10 to your WS Tests when using any One-handed and Two-handed Swords or Swordbreakers.

First Knight: You gain the Hatred (Demons) Talent.

Knight of the Inner Circle: You deal a critical hit on any Servants of Chaos on a roll that lands on any double, canceling any fumbles that land on doubles—with the exception of a Critical Fumble landing on a 96-100. When landing on a -SL on Doubles, you supplement it for the amount on the unit's dice.

Heraldry: Black and Yellow, with Blue, Green, and Burgundy Plumes, Griffon Sigil.

Knights Panther

Squire: You gain the Lore (Beastmen) and Lore (Mutants) Skills.

Knight: You gain a +10 to your WS Tests when using Lances, Flails or any Hand Weapons.

First Knight: You gain the Hatred (Beastmen) and Hatred (Mutants) Talents.

Knight of the Inner Circle: You gain the Champion Trait when fighting your most hated foes.

Heraldry: Blue and Gold, Panther Sigil.

Grand Order of the Reiksguard

Squire: You gain the Lore (Empire) Skill.

Knight: You gain a +10 to your WS Tests when using any Lances, Two-handed Swords or Shields.

First Knight: You gain the Hatred (Beastmen) and Hatred (Greenskins) Talents.

Knight of the Inner Circle: You gain the Elite and Leader Traits during combat against enemies of the Empire. The Willpower Bonus given by the Traits does not affect your Wounds.

Heraldry: White and Red, The Emperor's sigil.

Templars of the Everlasting Light

Squire: You gain the Lore (Witches) Skill.

Knight: You gain a +10 to your WS Tests when using Lances or Polearms.

First Knight: You gain the Hatred (Witches) Talent.

Knight of the Inner Circle: In your hands, all lances count as magic weapons and do +2 additional damage while mounted and Charging. They also lose the Improvised Weapon effect if used on a round you haven't Charged. If you wield a lance that is already magical, its damage is increased by +1.

Heraldry: Lit Candles, Forked Candle Flames.

Order of the Broken Sword

Squire: You gain the Lore (Beastmen) Skill.

Knight: You gain a +10 to your WS Tests when using any One or Two-handed Swords.

First Knight: You gain the Hatred (Beastmen) Talent.

Knight of the Inner Circle: At the start of each encounter against Servants of Chaos, you may reverse the dice of any Opposed Melee Test, if it will help you succeed, up to three times each encounter.

Heraldry: Silver, Gold, Red and Blue, Skull and Sword Symbol.

Order of the Sacred Scythe

Squire: You gain the Lore (Morr) and Lore (Undead) Skills.

Knight: You gain a +10 to your WS Tests when using any Halberds or Flails.

First Knight: You gain the Hatred (Undead) Talent.

Knight of the Inner Circle: You deal a critical hit on any Undead on a roll that lands on any double, canceling any fumbles that land on doubles--with the exception of a Critical Fumble landing on a 96-100. When landing on a -SL on Doubles, you supplement it for the amount on the unit's dice instead.

Heraldry: Black, Skull Sigil.

Knights of Sigmar's Blood

Squire: You gain the Lore (Sigmar) Skill.

Knight: You gain a +10 to your WS Tests when using Lances or Flails.

First Knight: You gain the Hatred (Any) Talent.

Knight of the Inner Circle: You gain the Tough Trait.

Heraldry: Silver and Red, Sigmar Sigil.

Knights of Morr

Squire: You gain the Lore (Morr) Skill.

Knight: You gain a +10 to your WS Tests when using Halberds or Two-handed Swords.

First Knight: You gain the Hatred (Undead) Talent.

Knight of the Inner Circle: You gain the Champion Trait when fighting your most hated foes.

Heraldry: Black, Sigil of a Skeleton Wielding a Scythe.

Order of the Golden Lion

Squire: You gain the Lore (Sigmar) Skill.

Knight: You gain a +10 to your WS Tests when using Spears or Shields.

First Knight: You gain the Hatred (Greenskins) Talent.

Knight of the Inner Circle: At the start of each encounter against Greenskins, you may reverse the dice of any Opposed Melee Test, if it will help you succeed, up to three times each encounter.

Heraldry: Grey and Red, Gold Lion Sigil.

Knights Encarmine

Squire: You gain the Lore (Politics) Skill.

Knight: You gain a +10 to your WS Tests when using Rapiers or Swordbreakers.

First Knight: You gain the Hatred (Mutants) Talent.

Knight of the Inner Circle: You gain the Dual Wielder and the +2 Ambidextrous Talents, but you can only fight while Dual Wielding or take a -20 penalty on all WS Tests.

Heraldry: Red Armor, Red, White and Green Plumage and Myrmidian Symbol.

Order of the Hammer of Sigmar

Squire: You gain the Lore (Greenskins) Skill.

Knight: You gain a +10 to your WS Tests when using any One or Two-handed Hammers or Flails.

First Knight: You gain the Hatred (Greenskins) Talent.

Knight of the Inner Circle: You gain the Champion Trait when fighting your most hated foes.

Heraldry: Grey, White and Red, Hammer Sigil.

Order of the Fiery Heart

Squire: You gain the Lore (Sigmar) Skill.

Knight: You gain a +10 to your WS Tests when using any One-handed or Two-handed Hammers or Shields.

First Knight: You gain the Hatred (Greenskins) Talent.

Knight of the Inner Circle: Any Hammers you wield automatically gain the Sigmar's Fiery Hammer Miracle at the start of an encounter.

Heraldry: White Surcoats, Red Heart Symbol with Black Cross Emblem.

Order of the Black Rose

Squire: You gain the Lore (Undead) Skill.

Knight: You gain a +10 to your WS Tests when using any Polearms.

First Knight: You gain the Hatred (Undead) Talent.

Knight of the Inner Circle: At the start of each encounter against Undead, you may reverse the dice of any Opposed Melee Test, if it will help you succeed, up to three times each encounter.

Heraldry: Black and Red, Black Rose with Green Stem Against a Red Field Symbol.

Order of the Reikshammer

Squire: You gain the Lore (Reikland) and Lore (Ubersreik) Skills.

Knight: You gain a +10 to your WS Tests when using any Hand Weapons with a Shield, Halberds or Two-handed Swords.

First Knight: You gain the Hatred (Skaven), Hatred (Norscans) and Hatred (Beastmen) Talents.

Knight of the Inner Circle: When outnumbered in melee, the knight gains the same bonus to hit as their enemies would. This bonus applies even if they have the Combat Master Talent, which would deny their enemies the outnumbering bonus.

Heraldry: Black, White and Red, Ubersreik's Sigil.

